Open Verdict Is Given in Ashley Case at Inquest

Jury Fails to Determine How Death Potion Was Administered — Dr. John Vance, Criminologist, Reconstructs Tragedy From Scientific Evidence—Prussic Acid Found in Stomach

AFTER taking the case under advisement for nearly two hours, a period which was broken only by about ten minutes' resumption of the hearing to clear up some points still in doubt, a coroner's jury brought in an open verdict at the resumed inquest yesterday into the death of Stewart Ashley, Vancouver school teacher.

"Stewart Ashley came to his death on or about April 22 from the effects of poison, that is to say, cyanide potassium, and we do not consider there is sufficient evidence to decide as to when, how, where or by whom it was administered."

This was the ultimate verdict, suggested by Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart, written by him, read to the jury and finally signed.

Prior to this the jury had brought in a verdict that Ashley had come to his death through poison administered by person or persons unknown.

"HARDLY VERDICT"

"That can hardly be accepted as a verdict. What do you mean by persons? Do you include the victim among those who may have administered the poison?" Dr. Hart asked.

Reginald Milin, foreman of the jury, replied that it was the desire of the jury to bring in an open verdict.

"This verdict would indicate to me that there has been a little tendency to bring outside matters into the case. Your duty is to base the verdict on what you hear in this court and not what you read in the newspapers, or hear in the barber's chair or what your next door neighbor had to say to the washerwoman," Dr. Hart declared.

Mr. Milin replied that the jury did not consider there was sufficient evidence to show how the victim had carried the poison.

LOVE WILL NOT LET PRIEST GO

Parishoners Resent Change, Seize Church, Hire Band and Hurl Defiance

PHILADELPHIA, May 4 (AP).—One priest was held captive, another was routed with his escort of eight policemen—even a funeral was halted—as a Roman Catholic congregation guarded its church today to "save the parish."

Fifteen hundred parishioners seized the church of Our Lady of Good Counsel and defied attempts to oust them. With a committee to lead and a band to entertain them, they announced they would remain in control until an order transferring their priests was rescinded.

POLICE LOCKED OUT

Police swung their clubs in the air in the church vestibule, and two mounted officers rode through the gates in an attempt to disperse the crowd, late today. The officers were pushed bodily from the grounds and locked out.

The trouble began when the rector and his two assistants attempted to leave in compliance with a transfer order. The fast-gathering crowd refused to permit them to leave. When they got away it was in the centre of a wedge composed of twenty-five policemen. Later the Rev. Simpliciano Gatt, assistant rector, returned to get some of his clothes and was made a captive.

"We love him; we will not let him go," was the explanation.

PLEAS ARE IN VAIN

Even Father Gatt's pleas were in vain, however, when a funeral party came to the gates of the church. The priest had refused to perform Mass because he had been transferred and the crowd would admit no other clergyman.

Cheers arose when the pallbearers backed away from the gates and placed the casket on the sidewalk. Finally the undertaker led the cortege to another church and cheers went up again. Boos and cat-calls greeted a new priest, Rev. Otto Toffolini. He was refused admission to the grounds.

FARMERS IN U.S. PLAN BIG STRIKE

Nation-Wide Holiday Set for May 13—Will Withhold Products From Markets

DES MOINES, Ia., May 4 (AP).—A nation-wide strike, May 13, on all farm products was voted today by the National Farmers' Holiday Association of the United States, in convention here.

For the second time within a year the delegates decided to withhold farm products from market in an effort to obtain prices covering cost of production. Adoption of the resolution for the declaration of a farm holiday was unanimous.

One thousand farmers from various States were present. John A. Bosch, national secretary, estimated the total membership of the association at between 1,000,000 and 1,500,00 in seventeen States.

NEW PENSION BODY LIKELY

Government May Merge Board of Commissioners and Pensions Tribunals

OTTAWA, May 4 (CP).—Merger of the Board of Pensions Commissioners and the Pensions Tribunals with the present functions of the two performed by a new body, which may be called the "Canadian Pension Commission," is now contemplated by the Government.

This was announced today to the House of Commons committee that is examining the bill amending the Pension Act by Colonel James Arthurs (Cons., Parry Sound), chairman of the committee.

The necessary legislation to bring this about will be placed before the committee on Tuesday as amendments to the present bill. Its implication is that both the Board of Pension Commissioners and the tribunals will disappear as such.

TO RETAIN PERSONNEL

Personnel of the present commission and either four or six of the present tribunal will be retained, according to whatever decision is arrived at with regard to the size of the body.

In making his announcement, Colonel Arthurs said that, following discussions with the Minister of Pensions, Hon. Murray MacLaren, and officials of the Pension Department, he had found them willing to give way to reasonable representations respecting the act. They believe the bill to be a good one, and one which carried out the recommendations of the investigating committee.

Six Freight Cars Burn In Two Fires

COLEBROOK, B.C., May 4 (CP).—Fire, believed by police to have been incendiary, destroyed six empty box cars on the Great Northern Railway spur track near here.

The fire broke out in two places about a quarter of a mile apart, three cars being burned at each spot. About 200 cars are on the spur, but section men prevented the fire from spreading to other cars.

A tramp was seen heading along the tracks toward Colebrook and police believe he set the fire after unsuccessfully flagging a freight train for a lift.

MATCH DUTY HIGHER

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 4 (CP).—The Executive Council of the Irish Free State today issued an order increasing the import duty on matches to 30 per cent. The increase was seen as a measure against dumping. There is no Empire preferential rate on matches.

President of U.S. Stresses Need of Rising Wage Scale

Roosevelt Pledges Government's Assistance to Rid Industry of Cut-Throat Competition—Appeals to Employers to Refrain From Further Reductions in Wages

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP) — The Government's ready assistance in any movement on the part of industry to rid itself of the evils of cut-throat competition was pledged tonight by President Roosevelt. Addressing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which for several days had argued the question of industrial regulation—by the Government or by business itself—the chief executive called for a rising wage scale, and asked business men to be more concerned with restoring general prosperity than with bettering their own particular branch of industry alone.

"In almost every industry, an overwhelming majority of the units of the industry are wholly willing to work together to prevent overproduction, to prevent unfair wages, to eliminate improper working conditions," he said.

HAMPERING MINORITY

"In the past, success in attaining these objectives, has been prevented by a small minority of units in many industries. I can assure you that you will have the co-operation of your Government in bringing these minorities to understand that their unfair practices are contrary to a sound public policy."

The chief executive's brief address was tumultuously received by the delegates to the chamber's annual convention. After weeks of controversy over industrial control, which reached a near climax in speeches before the meeting, the delegates were somewhat disappointed that Mr. Roosevelt made no disclosure of a specific administration plan for ending the evils, which Mr. Roosevelt mentioned. Repeatedly, through the several days of the chamber's session, the delegates had heard speakers urge some plan of regulation by industry itself, as an alternative to the thirty-hour week bill pending in Congress, and the minimum wage and business regulation ideas advanced by Secretary Perkins.

Mr. Roosevelt carefully refrained from expressing any attitude toward any one of the numerous plans that

THREE BURNED BY EXPLOSION

Accident at Esquimalt Sends Victims to Hospital With Painful Injuries

Painfully burned about the face and hands when they attempted to extinguish burning fat on a stove with water, three persons were taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, early last evening, for medical attention.

They are James Watt, twenty-two; Francis McGrath, thirteen, and Vera Friedlander, ten, all three residents of 1205 Juno Street, Esquimalt, where he accident occurred.

According to police reports, there was a quantity of fat on a kitchen range and this became ignited, causing an explosion. When the burning fat commenced to spread, the three attempted to extinguish the flames with water, causing the fat to splash over their faces and hands. All of them received painful burns, but hospitals authorities stated, at a late hour last night, none of them was serious.

The accident occurred shortly after 7 o'clock and, in response to an emergency call, Chief H. W. V. Pecknold took charge of the injured and had them removed to hospital, where they were attended by Dr. J. S. McCallum. The house was not damaged.

Victoria Again Wins at Festival

VANCOUVER, May 4 (CP).—Another high award to a resident of Victoria was made at the closing session today of the British Columbia Musical Festival, when Smyth Humphries, of that city won the class for professional composers with his original composition, "The Piper's Lagoon," taking eighty marks.

St. Cecilia choristers, of Vancouver, under the leadership of Mrs. Nancy Paisley-Benn, won the choral championship for which four other choirs competed.

VICTIM OF STABBING DIES AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, May 4 (CP). — John Russell, victim of a stabbing affray Tuesday night, died in General Hospital this morning. George James Davis, occupant of a neighboring shack to Russell's on the waterfront, is held by police on a charge of "attempted murder." Mrs. Russell, wife of the dead man, is held as a material witness.

War Debts Excluded From Discussions at Economic Conference

Premier MacDonald Reports to Commons on Visit to White House—Says Britain Favors Tariff Truce With Safeguards

LONDON, May 4 (AP).—The first official expression of Great Britain's attitude toward a tariff truce was voiced by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, today, when he informed the House of Commons that Britain was asking for special "safeguards."

Mr. MacDonald, reporting to the House on his economic discussions with President Roosevelt, in Washington, also revealed that discussion of the war debts had been barred from the programme of the World Economic Conference.

DIFFER ON DETAILS

It was understood that at a conference today between Prime Minister MacDonald and Norman H. Davis, United States Ambassador at Large, the conferees found themselves in close affinity of view on the general programme. While differences existed over the details, the belief was expressed that nothing insuperable in this connection would present itself.

The question of the war debts was raised in the House of Commons after Prime Minister MacDonald had completed his report on his Washington discussions. He was asked whether the debts would be discussed at the parley, and he replied, "No."

NO AGREEMENT YET

In his statement to the House the Prime Minister revealed that the war debts had been "frankly examined" in all their aspects while he was in Washington. He said

Parliament Will Open Final Drive To Prorogation

OTTAWA, May 4 (CP). — Parliament will open its final drive next week toward prorogation. Morning sittings will begin Tuesday. Today Premier R. B. Bennett announced the balance of the Government's legislative programme, chief of which was the redistribution bill. The redistribution bill itself is the key to the length of the session, and if presented in its present form, Liberals say they will debate it four or five days, if not a week.

GO-BETWEEN IS APPOINTED

Parents of Kidnapped Child Trying to Make Contact With Abductors

HARWICHPORT, Mass., May 4 (AP). — New avenues of contact were opened to the kidnappers of ten-year-old Margaret McMath today with the appointment of a New York intermediary to deal with them in negotiations for the return of the child.

At the same time the hopes of Mr. and Mrs. Nell C. McMath, parents of the stolen child, turned toward Detroit and Tryon, N.C., in the belief that the kidnappers may have headed toward one place or the other in an effort to seek ransom from the wealthy grandparents of the kidnapped girl.

Meanwhile state and local police, gathering in growing numbers, scoured the highways and byways of Cape Cod in a vain search for some clue.

The anguished parents sent out an appeal to their daughter, asking her to be "a good girl," and do whatever her captors tell her.

READY FOR BUSINESS

The New York intermediary named by the parents was Arron Davis, an advertising man and uncle of William Lee, Harwichport boat builder, with whom McMath has been associated in business. At his office in New York Davis said he would be glad to meet anybody, anywhere.

Lee, acting spokesman for the parents, admitted hope had been held that there might be some development in Detroit during the day. Margaret's parents lived in Detroit until two years ago, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kales and Mr. and Mrs. Francis McMath, are wealthy and socially prominent there now. The stolen girl's father is not considered wealthy, and it was believed the kidnappers might be seeking to get into contact with the grandparents in an effort to exact a larger ransom.

WAITING FOR APPROACH

Mrs. Kales is now in Tryon, N.C., a small mountain village. She announced her intention of remaining there for some days in the hope the kidnappers might approach her.

Columbia Fishing at Standstill

ASTORIA, May 4 (CP). — The famous salmon fishing operations of the Lower Columbia River were at an absolute standstill today.

The wide expanse of river, usually swarming with fishermen at this season, was practically clear, even the seining crews having ceased operations, the result of a strike against the price of six cents a pound offered by packers for Chinook salmon. Eight cents a pound is demanded. Packing companies on both sides of the lower river closed their plants today. They said they were calling in their receiving stations, crews and pickup boats.

Burned to Death When Cars Crash

LOS ANGELES, May 4 (AP). — Two children were burned to death and seven other persons were badly injured, one perhaps fatally, as the result of a rear end automobile collision on Hawthorne Boulevard southwest of the city, late tonight.

GIVEN MEDALS FOR ARRESTING ROBBERS

VANCOUVER, May 4 (CP).—Two police officers, one a city constable and the other a member of the Canadian Pacific Railway force, were honored by civic authorities today for their bravery in arresting robbers who held up the Mount View beer parlor recently.

Mayor Louis D. Taylor presented to Detective David Shearer, of the city police, and C.P.R. Constable Matthew Lamb gold medals for their work in apprehending the robbers.

WILL ENJOY BENEFITS

LONDON, May 4 (AP).—Countries entitled under existing treaties to most-favored-nation treatment will enjoy the benefit of any reductions now given under Britain's new trade treaties, Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, announced today in the House of Commons.

Blue Ribbons Capture Canadian Basketball Laurels for Victoria

Local Team Displays Brilliant Form in Taking 41-36 Victory Over Windsor in Deciding Game of Dominion Hoop Play-Offs—More Than 2,000 See Great Exhibition

SENSATIONAL marksmanship, coupled with a stone-wall defence and all-round brilliant teamwork, swept the Blue Ribbons through to the Canadian men's senior basketball championship last night, at the Willows gymnasium, when they defeated Windsor-Walkerville Alumni, Eastern title-holders, in the fourth and final fixture of the three-out-of-five series by a 41-to-36 score.

It marked the third straight verdict for the Victoria quintette and gives them possession of the Montreal Sportsmen's Cup, symbolic of the honors, for the ensuing twelve months. Dr. J. A. Gillespie, Vancouver, presented the silverware to "Chuck" Chapman, Ribbons' captain, following the match, amid a great ovation from the packed gymnasium.

The Ribbons' win marked the close of the greatest Dominion final ever staged. Fighting with their backs to the wall after their first game defeat, the locals came back with determination and confidence and took Windsor in three straight. Winnipeg Toilers held the trophy last year and were on the way to start in defence of their laurels when death and severe injuries overtook them in a plane crash on their way back from Tulsa. Engraved on the cup as it was passed along to the brilliant local captain were two names, Mike Shea and Joe Dodds, Winnipeg boys, who were killed in the crash.

GREAT OVATION

When the final gun sounded, the crowd, estimated at over 2,000, jumped from their seats and soon the basketball court was a mass of humanity. The fans were cheering wildly and throwing programmes and anything available in the air as they rushed to congratulate the Ribbons on their great win.

From the opening whistle, the Ribbons were confident of succeeding the Toilers as titleholders and they set a terrific pace to the end, outplaying their much lighter opponents in practically every department. Windsor put a determined left Tokio yesterday for his conferences with President Roosevelt. He will defend Japan's role as a "primary defender of the peace of the Orient" and urge recognition of Manchukuo.

CHARGE TROOPS CROSS BORDER

Alleged Invasion of Soviet Territory Denied by Japanese Representative

TOKIO, May 5 (AP). — A new phase of Russo - Japanese friction came to light today in a conference at the foreign office between Constantin Youreneff, Soviet ambassador, and Hachiro Arita, vice-minister of foreign affairs, concerning an alleged Japanese invasion of Soviet territory.

Youreneff charged Japanese troops pursuing anti - Manchukuan insurgents last February crossed the border north of Pogranichnaya, but returned immediately to Manchukuan territory without clashing with Soviet guards.

It was disclosed that a Soviet protest immediately following the event evoked a Japanese denial of the allegations.

Youreneff's fresh representations were declared to be based on a thorough reinvestigation of the incident by the Soviet Government, which asked punishment of the Japanese commander responsible and assurances against a repetition.

It was understood Arita stood firm on the previous denial.

OATH ABOLITION NOT ACT OF SECESSION

LONDON, May 4 (AP).—J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominions, announced in the House of Commons today the Government has been advised that the abolition of the oath of allegiance to the British Crown by the Irish Free State Dail does not amount to an act of secession. Mr. Thomas said the allegiance of the members of the Free State Parliament does not depend on the swearing of an oath.

TRADE TO LAST MUST BE FAIR

Canadian Chamber of Commerce President Speaks in United States

WASHINGTON, May 4 (CP).—If the United States and Canada are to trade with each other there is one outstanding fact both must observe, and it is that the trade must be fair trade or it cannot persist, John W. Ross, Montreal, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, told the twenty-first annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce here today.

"If we are to continue regarding each other's markets as convenient locations for big exports alone," he continued, "we are merely deceiving ourselves. The visualizing of any country as an export market must be accompanied by a shrewd estimate of that country as a source of profitable imports. Do not lose sight of the fact that imports can be as profitable as exports.

NECESSARY KEYSTONES

"An 'entente cordiale' for goodwill, fair dealing and mutual advantages are the keystones on which the trade relationships of our two countries must be built if they are to endure."

Mr. Ross dismissed any idea that the agreements entered into by Canada at the British Empire Economic Conference at Ottawa would be a barrier to trade proposals between the Dominion and the United States. "There is ample scope for a more satisfactory adjustments of tariffs between our Dominion and your republic without any undue encroachment on the Empire treaties," he said.

Will Speak for Canada on Wheat

OTTAWA, May 4 (CP).—Canada will be represented at the wheat conference in Geneva, on May 10, by G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London, and Dr. W. A. Riddell, permanent Canadian representative to the League of Nations. Announcement to this effect was made today.

HOP GROWERS PLEASED

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 4 (CP).—Hop growers in the Fraser Valley are optimistic over crop and market prospects this season, which look brighter than for several years.

Government Orders Overhaul of Meal Impost Provisions

Premier Tolmie Instructs Taxation Branch to Prepare New Draft of Regulations—Exemptions Contemplated on Board and Meals

PREMIER Tolmie ordered a redraft of the meal tax regulations yesterday, declaring that these exceeded the intention of the Government and the purpose of the Hospitals Aid Act. The Premier intimated it was the intention of the Government immediately to revise the regulations, to remove features which appear as unreasonable, and the passage of which had aroused considerable feeling.

The original regulations were prepared under the direction of the Finance Department, and, among other things, extended the tax to many meals of under 50 cents in value. C. B. Peterson, commissioner of the taxation branch, was called on by the Cabinet to prepare a new set of regulations for submission forthwith.

WILL AMEND RULES

The Government will act at once to implement amended rules for the operation of the tax as soon as the necessary changes can be made and ratified. It is understood, in this connection, that the Government has under consideration definite exemption for meal tickets where the price of the meal is under the fifty cents prescribed as dutiable under the act.

A schedule of board allowances, which will be tax exempt, is also believed contemplated. These, it is thought, will hold $1 a day, $7 a week, and $26 a month in board rates as tax exempt, but would apply the tax to a portion of excess of these rates, with the tax fully applicable on rates of $1.45 a day, $9 a week, and $35 per month and over.

B.C. BUSINESS IS IMPROVING

Retail Sales Better, Employment Growing and Base Metals Move

Increased employment, better retail sales, and improved export of base metals and silver featured the April returns of industrial firms in British Columbia, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. A gain of 876 persons in employment was shown by 766 firms reporting during April, compared with the total for the month previous.

This increased employment was absorbed by firms with a total of 55,941 engaged, and was due largely to better conditions in manufacturing, logging, railway construction and operation.

SALES ARE BETTER

Retail sales also advanced in British Columbia. The index numbers quoted by the bureau for March showed increased sales in ten groups, compared with figures for February. The general index, based on the level of sales in January, 1929, was 72.8, an increase from 61.6 as in February last.

Exports of lead stepped up 47 per cent in March over February. Zinc shipments increased 50 per cent. Silver shipments were better by 75 per cent; due to recent firmness in base metals and silver prices.

Slight declines were shown in one group of retail lines, and quiet conditions continued in building construction.

BRITISH TRADE PACT ADVANCES

Government Scores Another Victory over Die-Hard Tariff Ranks by Large Majority

LONDON, May 4 (AP).—The Government again scored over die-hard tariff ranks in the House of Commons tonight, a resolution approving the Anglo-German trade agreement being carried on the report stage by a vote of 304 to 56.

The Opposition made itself heard during the debate, but was unable to muster enough strength. Liberal members supported the Government, while many Laborites abstained from voting.

After seven hours of debate the House of Commons last Monday night approved a trade pact with Germany by a vote of 285 to 23 after high-tariff Conservatives, led by Sir Austen Chamberlain, had attacked it and tried to hold it up on the grounds that it constituted a bad trade bargain and would injure British industry.

Prior to the vote on the pact itself a motion to adjourn debate was defeated 269 to 80

PORTLANDERS WIN TOURNEY

Aircraft Five-Men Squad Captures Open Event at Northwestern Congress

Aircraft, of Portland, were named five-men open champions of the Northwestern Bowling Congress last night when the final entrants in the open class bowled. The Portlanders crashed the maples for a total of 2,933 pins in the early part of the evening, and their lead was never headed.

La Salle, Recreations, of Vancouver, rolled into second place with a total of 2,850. The Mainlanders needed 1,059 in their last game to tie the leaders, and for a while appeared as though they would make it. Ferguson, lead-off man, rolled seven strikes, three spares, and got nine on his last ball to tie Wilson for high game of the day with 255.

In third place were the Ebonites, of San Francisco, with 2,847 pines. Black Ball, of Seattle, were fourth, and Pacific Match, of Tacoma, were fifth. Others in the money were as follows: Silver Loaf Bakery, Spokane, 2,833; Puckett Co., Seattle, 2,815; Rippes Cafe, Seattle, 2,801; Chapman's Recreations, Vancouver, 2,798; Georgia-York, Vancouver, 2,795; Jokers, Victoria, 2,790; Pheasant Cafe, Tacoma, 2,789; R. A. Conyers, Oakland, 2,788, and Bake Lite Bakery, Wenatchee, 2,781.

Play in the open doubles and singles will continue all day today at the alleys, as bowlers make their final attempts for the all-events crown.

WAR DEBTS EXCLUDED FROM DISCUSSIONS AT ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

that no fuller statement was possible at present as the problem "necessarily has not yet reached the stage of agreement."

The House listened with eager interest to Mr. MacDonald's account of his Washington journey, the purpose of which, he said, was "to ascertain by intimate discussion what the prospects were of co-operation."

"We both shared the views," the Prime Minister continued, "that our respective countaries should enter the conference which is now to meet so soon, with hands completely untied. The result of these exchanges of views and examinations of problems was most encouraging.

POSITION IS DIFFERENT

"In view of the controversy which has arisen with reference to the suggestion of a tariff truce, I had better say that I felt it my duty to point out how different is the position of a country like our own from that of those which are already high-tariff countaries with policies of economic defence fully worked out and in operation.

"Whilst I welcomed the idea of a truce during the period of the conference, I made it plain that its application would have to be subjected to safeguards which this difference in our positions requires.

"This was considered to be reasonable. I took the opportunity of putting before the President a full account of the British policy on disarmament, and as a result of our discussions, we reached common views which have been reflected in the effective co-operation between British and American delegates in support of the draft convention now before the Disarmament Conference at Geneva.

QUESTION OF DEBTS

"We also discussed the question of the debts and frankly examined the problem in all its aspects. These exchanges of views were of particular importance as they brought out in well-defined detail what differences have to be reconciled, and not only in the final settlements, but in the immediate handling of the question.

"As for the visit on the whole, while I wish to convey no exaggerated impression, I would say with confidence that mutual understanding between ourselves and the American Government has been materially improved by the discussions which I have had with the President, for whose friendly hospitality and unreserved helpfulness throughout all our deliberations the warmest thanks of the Government are due."

ASKS FOR DETAILS

Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, head of the Labor Opposition, characterized the MacDonald statement as "meagre," and called on the Prime Minister to take the Commons and the country into his confidence and to "give a full statement of the Government's policy generally as regards the World Economic Conference."

The Opposition will be more fully heard on Tuesday, when there will be general debate on the Washington conversations, and on British policy at the Economic Conference.

There is nothing in the act to provide for arrest, and penalties under the law are likely to be made subject to summary conviction, as in summons cases. This point was not dealt with originally.

RESTS ON STATUTE

The payment by a host of the meal checks of his guests is dutiable under the terms of the act, where the total amount is 50 cents or over, and this feature of the tax will probably stand. With this exception, however, it is believed the intention of the Government to lift the tax from a wide variety of meal checks that proved to be assessable under the present regulations.

Simplification is also intended of the method of accounting for the tax, the proceeds of which will be handed on in turn by the Government to British Columbia hospitals, less actual costs of administration.

PROVE UNREASONABLE

Little secret is made of the fact that the regulations as first drafted far exceeded the intention of the Government in respect to the operation of the law. It was not until restaurant and hotel keepers began to weigh up the effect of the regulations that it was officially realized that the effect would be far more drastic than was supposed. Premier Tolmie said flatly that the regulations have proved unreasonable, and declared they would be overhauled at once.

In view of the Government's decision to alter the regulations to take care of some of the objection raised against the workability of the tax, it is possible that negotiations arranged for today between the Government and the catering trade may be postponed, to afford opportunity of working out the new basis of the impost.

have been advanced. Only a few hours previously an unofficial committee of administration congressional advisers and business leaders had completed drafting a plan for a three-year suspension of the anti-trust laws, to permit trade agreements for restricted production subject to the approval of a government regulating agency. This proposal awaited the chief executive's study.

At the conclusion of his brief, prepared address the President told the audience, which filled the vast city auditorium, of the co-operation he has received in his recent international conversations in the interest of world recovery.

HAVE GOT TO DO IT

He told how in talking about the hope of the world with Prime Minister MacDonald that:

"I said, 'Mr. MacDonald, it is more than hope—we have got to do it.'

"He looked at me and said, 'Yes, that good old Scotch word, got. We have got to do it. We will do it.'"

Calling attention to a "slight but definite upturn in most industries" and "a simultaneous rise in most commodity prices," Mr. Roosevelt said past experiences indicated that "when the price level begins to rise after a long period of declining commodity prices, wages, which have been previously curtailed, lag behind the rise in the price level." He added:

AN UNFAIR BURDEN

"That result has in the past imposed upon those who labor an unfair burden, and has limited the purchasing power of the overwhelming majority of our population.

"I, therefore, ask you, who represent in all probability the majority of the employers of the nation, to refrain from further reduction in the wages to your employees, and I ask you also to increase your wage scales in conformity with, and simultaneous with, the rise of the level of commodity prices in so far as this lies within your power."

Among the authors of the plan presented by the unofficial committee of administration advisers were Senator Wagner, Democrat, outstanding congressional spokesman.

New Anti-Squirt Spoon

WHO has not sighed, at some time or another, for a device such as Dr. B. L. Hooper, of Nebraska, is demonstrating here? Eating grapefruit becomes a pleasure instead of a pennance with the doctor's umbrella spoon. When the spoon comes in contact with the juicy fruit an umbrella-like shield protects the consumer and his table companions from the resultant deluge. But when the spoon is conveyed to the mouth, the device closes and all is well.

Mrs. Newlywed: "I get so upset when I ask my husband for money. Were you that way?".

Mrs. Old-Timer: "No, indeed. I just remained calm—and collected."

Colonel Arthurs suggested the clause of the amending act, which abolished all the pension tribunals, be held over to enable the departmental officers to draft new amendments.

NOT YET SUBMITTED

The contemplated amendments had not been submitted to the veterans, since he had not had time to do so.

Invited by the committee to express his views, J. R. Bowler, general secretary of the Canadian Legion, declared he would have to submit the new proposal to his colleagues of the Associated Veterans before venturing an opinion. However, at the first glance it would seem that the suggestion met what the veterans had been asking, particularly if it meant the merging of the two bodies into one court of first instance.

The committee is to meet again tonight.

A possibility that those who aided in the search for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's son, after he was kidnapped in New Jersey, might be called in to aid, was seen in statements by Lee and by Daniel Needham; Massachusetts public safety commissioner.

Lee said the New York intermediary had mentioned the name of Colonel Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, who directed the search for Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., and he believed Davis had talked with Schwartzkopf. Needham expressed the belief that the solution of the McMath kidnapping might lead to a solution in the Lindbergh case.

SEARCHING FOR BOAT

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP).—Police department launches and airplanes were ordered out late today to search this vicinity for a twenty-eight-foot motorboat, in connection with the kidnapping of Margaret McMath, of Harwichport, Mass.

At the same time an interstate teletype message transmitted early today asking that a watch be kept for a certain automobile was made public.

Captain Arthur A. Wallender, in charge of the police department air force, said one of his planes had spent several hours over New York waters today searching in vain for the motorboat. He declined to say what basis there was for connecting the craft with the abduction or to describe it in detail.

Intends to Extend New Zealand Pact

OTTAWA, May 4 (CP).—The Government intends extending the New Zealand Treaty which expires May 24, Premier Bennett intimated today. Among the measures to be introduced this session will be one to give the Cabinet power to extend

YOU OTHER FISHERMEN, PLEASE NOTE:

You have been offered "quick-starting" gasolines, "power" gasolines, "anti-knock" gasolines. Here is a combination of all three. The three pure types of energy from the very heart of petroleum, with all the wasteful parts discarded.

QUICK ENERGY—For starting, pick-up, changes in motor speed. Very important to every driver. But only one of three essentials.

POWER ENERGY—Even the premium-priced fuels cannot excel Shell 3-energy in mileage, in power. Compare any fuel with Shell 3-energy gasoline—regardless of price. But mileage isn't the whole story.

ANTI-KNOCK ENERGY—to turn power into a smooth, steady flow. To reduce engine strain and wear; to give you quiet, knock-free performance on the hills.

Look for all three of these energies in Shell. Compare it with the so-called special "power fuels," the "super-anti-knock" gasolines and featured "starting" varieties. Here is a gasoline that does the entire job better!

BILL DEFINES COASTAL TRADE

Amended Shipping Act Prevents Foreign Boats Operating in Canada

OTTAWA, May 4 (CP).—An amendment to the Canada Shipping Act designed to make more watertight the coastal laws of the Dominion was introduced in the Senate today. The bill was given second reading and referred to the committee on banking and commerce.

The coasting trade of Canada includes the carriage by water of goods or passengers from one port or place in Canada to another port or place in Canada.

INLAND TRADE

The inland coasting trade includes the carriage by water of goods and passengers from one port or place on the inland waters of Canada, to another port or place in Canada on the same waters.

A vital section of the new act is that providing that "no ship other than British ship shall, either directly or by way of a foreign port, transport foods from any one place in Canada to any other place in Canada."

"Transportation by a voyage which represents part only of an entire transportation by non-continuous voyage between such one place and such other place shall be deemed to be a contravention of this subsection."

This section precludes the broken voyages by use of foreign ships.

No ship other than a British ship shall either directly or by way of a foreign port transport passengers from any one place in Canada to any other place in Canada, the act provides.

"If you disagree, then I can order you to be held over until the next assizes so that a judge may instruct you in your duty," Dr. Hart replied.

SUGGESTS COURSE

He then suggested that if the jury wished to bring in an open verdict, they do so along the line that death was caused by poison, but that there was insufficient evidence as to how it was administered. After asking the jurymen if they wished him to draft the verdict along these lines, he proceeded to do so. He wrote the verdict out, read it to the jury, after which each member signed the statement.

The jury went out at 11:20 a.m. and the verdict was finally rendered at 1:05 p.m. Between that time the jury returned to place some four or five witnesses on the stand for further questioning. This resumption of the hearing lasted about ten minutes, after which the jury again returned to the room for final consultation. In giving the case to the jury, Dr. Hart stated there were but two verdicts possible, murder or suicide.

The inquest was held in Thomson's mortuary, where the first part of the inquest took place. Chief of Police Thomas Heatley said, as he walked away from the undertaking parlor, that the verdict rendered by the jury left the police no alternative than to prosecute their inquiries in every direction and as far as it is humanly possible.

CRIMINOLOGIST HEARD

Probably the most outstanding witness at the hearing was Dr. John Vance, inspector of Vancouver police and criminologist for the past twenty-six years. He told the court that the case was the most clearly defined one that he had worked on for a number of years. "I could follow his (Ashley's) every movement from the specimens of soil I obtained from the scene of the tragedy," he declared.

Dr. Vance said he had analyzed pieces of the victim's stomach, contents of the lungs, liver and intestines. He also had examined the bank bordering the pool where the body was found. There was no carbon monoxide in the blood, he said. The stomach contents contained eleven ounces of liquid and a half an ounce of solid. Cyanide potasium was found in the stomach, he said. The amount was equivalent to 1.4 grains prussic acid, which is the same poison in a different state.

Due to the extreme acidity caused by the oils in roasted and salted peanuts, which formed the solid taken from the stomach, the action of the poison would be much quicker than under ordinary circumstances, Dr. Vance stated. Ashley, he added, apparently had had nothing to eat but peanuts, and nothing to drink but water. The lungs, bronchial tube and windpipe were entirely free from water, the criminologist added.

TRACE FOOTSTEPS

Touching upon his investigation at the pool on the Industrial Reserve, Dr. Vance said that with the assistance of city police the spot where the boulder was taken, which weighted down the bundle of clothes found in the pond, was determined. Earth found there was of a granulated granite substance and specimens were found in Ashley's trouser cuffs and shoes.

Specimens of earth were taken from the top of the embankment, and at various stages down the bank, which Dr. Vance said, sloped at an engle of 60 degrees.

Samples of earth found on the victim's shoes corresponded accurately with dirt found on the top of the bank. Earth found on the seat of Ashley's pants and the tail of his coat also corresponded with earth found twenty-four feet from where the body was found. Other samples of earth found on the clothing worn by the victim revealed that he had rolled down the bank. There were no signs of a struggle evident at the scene, and all evidence pointed to Ashley being alone.

Reconstructing the tragedy, Dr. Vance said that in his opinion, Ashley had apparently wrapped his excess clothing around a boulder and thrown it into the pond. The position where the bundle was found was in direct line with the movements of the victim as indicated by the earth specimens.

USED CAPSULE

Ashley then, in the criminologist's opinion, sat down on the bank, some twenty-four feet from where his body was found, and took the poison in capsule form. The poison instantly caused a paralysis of the breathing organs and creates muscular convulsions, the witness stated. The youth would then roll down the bank and into the pond. No water would be able to get into his lungs, owing to the suddenness of death.

Another expert called was Henry B. McLean, of Vancouver, who is an authority on handwriting and typewriting. He told the court that he had identified the ransom note sent to the youth's father as having been written on the typewriting machine in the Vancouver Normal School office. It was typed on a noiseless typewriter, of which there is only one type.

WAS IN OFFICE

Miss Helmi Dodge, stenographer in the Normal School office, told of Ashley being in her office ten days prior to his disappearance, on April 13. She said he had access to the typewriter, and on being questioned stated that the nature class, where it could be expected to find cyanide potassium, was only a little distance down the hallway.

Dr. J. H. Moore, pathologist, told of making a post-mortem of the body on April 24. He said there was no water in the lungs; no evidence of violence, and that the body had possibly been in the water two or three days, not more. He had no opinion to express as to the cause of death.

Chief of Police Thomas Heatley told of the finding of a bundle of clothing in the pool and produced the clothing in court.

David Ashley, father of the dead school teacher, next took the stand. Through the hearing he questioned the various witnesses.

THE RANSOM NOTE

When on the stand he said his son was nineteen years of age last January. He last saw his son on the night of April 13 when he left home to go to the Y.M.C.A. There was nothing unusual about his manner. He was a substitute teacher and had money in the bank, so that he did not think that his son was in financial difficulties. The father, under questioning, declared he had done nothing to meeting the demands of the alleged kidnapper's note, in which $5,000 was set as the price of Stewart Ashley's safe return. When shown the bundle of clothing taken from the pond, the father could not identify the cap or gymnasium shirt. The pants looked like a pair his son had, but he was not sure. He said that his son frequently used a typewriter to do his school work.

Earl Fitzpatrick, Vancouver dry cleaner, identified his customer's mark on the pants as those brought to him a year ago by Ashley for cleaning.

SEEN ON TRAIN

Mrs. Anne Provis, of Ladysmith, told of seeing a youth answering Ashley's description on the railway tracks near Ladysmith between 11:30 and 12 o'clock noon on Thursday, April 20. She detailed her experience, which impressed the youth on her mind, and said the youth commented to her on the weather, giving her a start as he appeared from behind some freight cars standing on a siding.

Allan McLachlan, locomotive fireman-engineer on the E. & N., told of seeing a man answering Ashley's description board the engine tender of his train at Nanaimo on Thursday. He saw him again at Goldstream when the train stopped there for water. Mr. McLachlan partially identified the victim's clothing.

Archibald Sturrock, master mechanic of the E. & N., told the court of how he ordered a youth of Ashley's likeness from the train at Russell Station, in Victoria West, at 10:40 a.m., Saturday, April 22. The train was going northbound. The boy was over six feet tall, he believed, and was wearing an open white shirt, similar to the one produced in court. He did not have a military carriage, but appeared to be a nice boy, who was either depressed or had a whipped look in his face.

SEEK MOTIVE

When the jury returned from its forty-five-minute consultation to requestion some of the witnesses, they endeavored to ascertain whether there had been any trouble in the home or among his friends. This the father of the boy staunchly denied.

Inspector Rod McLeod, of the Vancouver police, also was called to answer similar questions along this line, but no evidence of trouble was discovered.

Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, asked questions of several witnesses when the jury returned to resume the hearing. He brought out that the youth could not have taken the poison in his food any length of time before his death, and that the poison, while highly dangerous, was easily obtainable, since students used it in nature study. Industries such as gold mining, electric plating and blacksmithing also use cyanide potassium.

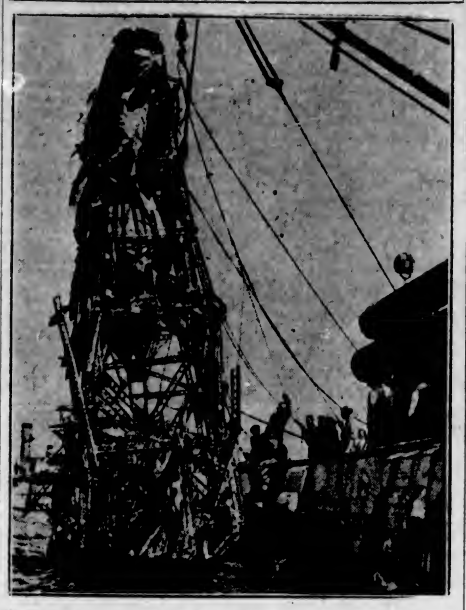
Wreckage From Akron



THE huge port fin of the Akron, largest single piece of the ill-fated dirigible found to date, is shown being raised from the ocean off the New Jersey Coast, to the deck of the salvage ship Falcon. Every recovered bit of the destroyed airship is being closely examined for clues to the cause of the Akron's destruction.

BILL ADVANCED TO LAST STAGE

Amendments to Railway Measure Are Accepted by Government

OTTAWA, May 4 (CP).—The Government railway bill to appoint a board of three trustees to manage the Canadian National system and bring it into close co-operation with the Canadian Pacific, passed through committee stage in the House of Commons today. It remains to be given third reading.

The railway bill, based on the recommendations of the Duff Transportation Commission, has been a contentious item since its introduction a month ago. The committee stage today was just a series of amendments, the majority from the Liberals.

ACCEPTS AMENDMENTS

Premier R. B. Bennett accepted a Liberal suggestion to remove the panel system in the appointment of trustees. Under the bill as drafted, vacancies in the board would be filled from a panel of eight names supplied by the President of the Exchequer Court, the chairman of the board of railway commissioners and the remaining trustees. As amended, the Cabinet would have power to fill vacancies as well as make original appointments.

The Government also accepted an amendment to bring the National Railway financial budget under the control of the trustees, but "subject to the approval of Parliament."

F. C. Adams Is New Secretary of Of Yacht Club

When the Victoria Yacht Club inanaging committee met in special meeting last night in the clubrooms, the following appointments were made: F. C. Adams, secretary-treasurer; H. A. Tomalin, rear-commodore, and chairman of the house committee; F. N. D. Robertson, member of managing committee; N. Van der Vliet, fleet captain; J. B. Acland, chairman of sailing committee; Dr. W. J. Gibson, chairman of motorboat committee, and W. T. Barrett, member of moring committee.

Mrs. M. J. Faulkner Succumbs Suddenly At Jubilee Hospital

Mrs. Mary J. Faulkner, aged seventy-eight years, died with tragic suddenness, Wednesday afternoon, when she collapsed at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, where she was visiting her husband, William Faulkner, who is a patient in the institution. Mrs. Faulkner resided at 1105 Finlayson Avenue.

Mrs. Faulkner was born in Quebec and came to Victoria forty years ago. She is survived by her husband and one son, George C., at the family residence; two daughters, Mrs. R. Hodgkinson, of 3135 Blackwood Street, and Mrs. L. Kirk, of Cubs City, Wisconsin; also ten grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at McCall Bros.' Funeral Home, tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. E. F. Church officiating. Interment will be made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

INFLATION IN U.S.A.

The United States House of Representatives has approved what is probably the greatest inflation measure in history. It will mean the expansion of credit and currency in the country by as much as $6,000,000,000, in addition to altering the gold backing of the American dollar by as much as 50 per cent. The rest of the world will regard this plan with a good deal of speculation tinctured by some trepidation. Inflation is the hardest thing to control, as was found in Germany when that country set its printing presses to work turning out money ad libitum. The ultimate outcome in Germany is a matter of history. The mark depreciated to the vanishing point of value. Bad money invariably drives good money out of circulation. It remains to be seen if the United States can control the inflation on the prodigious scale which it is about to set in operation.

According to the best informed economists in the world any inflationary process should only be devised by international action. That is why there will be speculation as to the reason that the United States should have taken the present action on the eve of a World Economic Conference. In some respects the United States may conceive that it is purely a matter of internal concern. It is not, however, for it is bound to have international repercussions. Wherever inflation has been attempted it has proved disastrous. That is a matter of history.

LAND SETTLEMENT

There is a percentage of relief to be found for unemployment in land settlement properly devised. That percentage, however, is smaller than most people believe, for the vast bulk of those who are unfortunately out of work does not constitute any great percentage of the population that would readily adapt itself to agricultural pursuits. In Eastern Canada something has been done in promoting land settlement as a contribution to unemployment relief, and the results have been comparatively good. The Dominion Government has aided in the venture. In other provinces schemes have been put forward for community settlements, but few of these have advanced beyond the realm of being proposed.

There are excellent tracts of land to be found in this province for the establishment of self-supporting communities, but there is no way whatever of insuring that once such communities are established they will be self-supporting. It may be assumed that if our Governments, both Federal and Provincial, were assured that by settling the unemployed on land specially selected, they would become self-supporting communities, this measure of relief would have been adopted on a wide scale long ago. On the contrary, governments have been slow to advocate such a remedy, for a variety of considerations. One of these is the low price of agricultural products. Another is the fact that in some respects there is, for the moment, over-production in agriculture. A third reason is the doubt that exists about any group of persons, no matter how carefully selected, becoming self-supporting on land. The latter is the crux of the situation.

MRS. MARY ELLEN SMITH

There was never any doubt of the public-spiritedness displayed by Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith during the course of her political life, and always as well when she was a private citizen. She has passed away and many will remember her career as one that should be an inspiration to the women of the land. She was an illustration of how women can make good in politics, for she was chosen by the late Premier Oliver for a position in his Cabinet. It is true she did not hold it for long, but that was her own choice. Doubtless she was of opinion that she could do equally good work and be less shackled as a private member of the Legislature.

Mrs. Smith's concern was naturally for women's affairs, but, as well, she took a wider interest in many other matters which pertained to the welfare of British Columbia. Her political creed led her to be a staunch supporter of social legislation. She was also particularly concerned about the alleviation of conditions in industry as a whole. This concern of hers led to her appointment, in 1929, as one of Canada's representatives to the International Labor Conference at Geneva, which was a high honor for a woman. She had a constructive mind, the faculty of getting to the root of political problems, and an admirable knowledge of conditions in the province, and, indeed, in Canada as a whole. She will be widely mourned, and very deep sympathy will be tendered to her sons who survive.

A CLEANER WORLD

Mr. James Garvie, an Aberdonian engineer, after a year's experiments, claims to have discovered a method of solving the smoke problem so far as coal is concerned. It is a momentous discovery if it can be utilized in a commercial sense and Mr. Garvie claims it can. He has already demonstrated with a tug on the Thames how the great black clouds belching from the funnel can be eliminated. In his test he used the cheapest and smokiest coal purchasable. The voyage of the tug, a correspondent relates, was commenced with the funnel "emitting thick, heavy clouds of oily smoke. A word from Mr. Garvie, and, hey presto, like magic, the smoke vanished, and we continue our voyage up the river with a funnel which seemed to be intended for ornament rather than use."

The smoke is abolished by means of an eliminator which burns it before it has a chance of leaving the boiler. Mr. Garvie says that it not only does away with smoke, but it economizes in fuel. On the tug of the description used in the test, the saving on the fuel bill would be not less than £520 a year. The apparatus, it is claimed, is adaptable to every kind of boiler, including railway locomotives, road steam vehicles of every description and factory boilers. Mr. Garvie is now working on a special apparatus for the home hearth, and he has reached a stage where it is possible to eliminate 50 per cent of the domestic smoke.

Thus Mr. Garvie brings the vision of a cleaner world. Moreover, he brings a vision of substantial economies in industrial life. As one instance of this his firm recently guaranteed to save a laundry at least £500 a year. The device has been installed for six months and nearly £400 has been saved in that time, although the laundry in question is primarily interested in abolishing smoke.

NO SECESSION

Western Australia has voted to secede from the Commonwealth. That is simply an expression of opinion on the part of the inhabitants of that State. The legal difficulties in the way of giving effect to the people's wish are probably insuperable. The Constitution of the Commonwealth makes it "an indissoluble union." It is true that the Constitution can be amended by the Federal Parliament of Australia, but any amendment must be ratified by referendum with a majority in number and a majority of the States. The Constitution provides that no State can avoid its obligations under the Financial Agreement save with the consent of the other States. There is another consideration as well. Under the Statute of Westminster the Imperial Parliament can only legislate for a Dominion with the advice and consent of the Dominion concerned. In other words, the Imperial Parliament could not amend the Constitution of the Commonwealth unless asked to do so by the Commonwealth Government. There is no likelihood of acquiescence from that Government in the secession of Western Australia. In other words, the people of that State have voiced a desire which will not be put into effect.

NO DUMPING DUTY

What has for some time past amounted to a dumping duty on British goods entering Canada has now been eliminated. Hereafter, there is to be no declared value of the pound sterling for currency special duty purposes. Whatever excuse there was for this currency duty after Britain went off the gold standard, and during the period when sterling fell to a low ebb in exchange value with the dollar, there is no excuse now. The pound sterling has been steadily rising in value. The fluctuations in exchange, so far as it is concerned, are now upwards. Hereafter the collector of Customs will base his computations on the daily quotations set in the financial markets. That is as it should be. Britain is buying Canadian goods very freely. In return our people want to buy British goods. They were hindered by a dumping duty ordained through a fixed valuation of the pound for Customs purposes.

According to Mr. Ely Culbertson, "the biggest dubs in bridge are the so-called experts." Probably the results in the Olympic Bridge Tournament will show that those who went nearest to the pars were affected more by good luck than good guidance.

LET US GO BACK

"Let us go back
To the simpler and better things;
Let us retrace our steps
From our greed-born bickerings
Back to the quietness
Of plain, good friendliness.

"Let us go back
To the old roads of beauty's quest;
Let us again find joy
In the fields and the woods possessed
By the thrill of the Spring,
And of Summer wandering.

"Let us go back
To old-fashioned content, our wealth
Found in the garden nooks,
And beneath home roofs. Let the health
Of the trees and the grass
Be ours, as the seasons pass."
—Thomas Curtis Clark, in The New Outlook.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Formless themselves, reforming do pretend;
As if confusion could disorder mend.
—Daniel.

Revolutions are merely ordinary incidents in the somewhat torrid and turbulent lives of Latin countries, whether those countries be nominally monarchical or republican in their established or ephemeral institutions. In the South American republics the phenomena we call elections usually take the form of revolutions. Governments are sometimes, but not always, changed by the drastic process of killing Presidents. Such things sometimes happen in other Latin countries in which political institutions are older and of longer experience.

But revolutionary movements are spreading. They are no longer confined to Latin nations. There was the revolution in Italy which disestablished what was considered a democracy and established Fascism, which has affected the status of a monarchy and created a dictatorship. There was also a revolution which upset a nominal democracy in a temperamental Germany and created a dictatorship under the name of Nazism—if that be a properly convertible term. When the authority which was set up after the war to divide up the nations of Europe in accordance with the racial origin of their inhabitants divided and subdivided the Austro-Hungarian Empire there was little left of Austria except a comparatively insignificant remnant. So there was nothing for dismembered Austria to do but join forces with her cousins of Germany; but such a union is one of the things which are verboten under the terms of the treaties of peace.

So the condition of affairs in Europe today bears a very close resemblance to one of the jig-saw puzzles which have proved such a diversion to many people in this part of the world. Hitler of Germany has picked up the scattered fragments of the German and Austrian Empires and is trying to fit them together and establish them in what he considers their rightful place in the sun. In fact, it appears that Germany and Italy have joined themselves together for this purpose. Anything that Germany does Austria will endorse and support to the limit of her feeble ability. The German people are said to be so easily managed that anybody can govern them, but, judging from the conditions in Germany today, the German nations are not going to submit to other nations directing their affairs.

According to recent and current history, revolutions are not confined entirely to Latin nations. There has been a revolution in Great Britain. The only free trade nation in the world has adopted the principle of protection, although there are sporadic outbursts which indicate that some of the members of the Government which adopted a protective policy are not altogether reconciled to the somewhat spectacular renunciation. We sometimes doubt whether the Prime Minister is a very enthusiastic supporter of the principle of protection of British industries against the uncontrolled competition of foreign industries which enjoy selling in a protected market along with the privilege of free access to an unprotected market. Hon. Walter Runciman, a member of the MacDonald Government, who was a Liberal and still is an unconverted free trader, is said to have negotiated a treaty of trade and commerce with Germany which has aroused the ire of a large section of the Conservative Party, because they allege that the treaty will expose many of the growing industries of Britain to ruinous competition. Such opposition would appear to indicate that the revolution in Great Britain is not complete. The MacDonald Government appears to be strong, measured according to the strength of its supporters in Parliament, but it seems to be permeated by elements of weakness which may cause disunion and trouble.

But the most startling and the most unexpected revolution of all has burst like an explosive shell upon the United States. A newly-elected Congress is usually supposed to be more than usually representative of public opinion; but the new President has practically declared that he represents public opinion and that Congress must submit to him as a dictator. Congress is afflicted with one of the weaknesses that is most characteristic of all representative assemblies. It talks too much and is incapable of swift and direct action. The present situation demands action. Roosevelt is acting. He is acting so quickly that his actions are bewildering. He has declared that all the national institutions which have become almost as lame as the late Congressional lame ducks must be galvanized into life.

The basic industry of agriculture is to be provided with remunerative markets. It is to be made secure in the home market and measures are to be taken for providing the usual ten per cent surplus with foreign markets. The railways, which are practically bankrupt, are to be set upon their wheels again. The oil industry is to be revived and by assistance and regulations established upon a paying basis. The hours and pay of labor are to be regulated and jobs assured for all who are willing to work. Apparently no business has been overlooked in the general hothouse scheme of regeneration. The process of deflation has been completed, and the act of inflation has begun. Should there be a shortage of money, the value of gold can be deflated and the value of currency inflated. But the most interesting feature of the most momentous revolution will be the deflation of inflated tariffs. We fear when the President asks Congress to give him direct power over tariffs, there will be some violent vocal demonstrations in Congress.

'Slams and Salaams'

By H. T. M.

Step up, ladies and gentlemen! What price for the creaking residue of the old Gorge Bridge? Nobody wants it. No motherly breast beats longingly for it in the Municipality of Saanich—no fatherly arms stretch out to it, from the Municipality of Esquimalt. Time was, when any municipality would have been proud to boast parentage of this once-noble structure—but now, in its old age, it is to be laid as just another foundling, at the cold, cold feet of the Provincial Government. Will these cold feet kick it aside, and thereby literally shiver its already "shivering timbers," or, will the merry clink of hammer on nail ring out a song of Government-sponsored reincarnation, within the course of the next thirty or forty years? Ah woe! How are the mighty fallen! Meanwhile, the ends of this erstwhile proud span are bunged up with boards, and kids are peeking through the knot-holes, and getting a big kick out of their new game, "Wonder if we can sneak across it before a cop comes, or before it flops into the sea."

Wretched old Bridge! But, what a blade you were in your hey-day! Do you remember it—about ninety years ago—in the days when the 24th of May was the 24th of May and NOT just a "day of public agony?" Remember the gay throngs, in those mad old days—when licking an ice-cream cone was a hair-raising novelty, and quaffing a glass of "Sarsasparilla" would immediately brand one as no ordinary sort of libertine and social menace? The Gorge was gay, then—and the old bridge staunchly bore up its endless, solvent cargo of pink - ginghamed maids, and norfolk-coated "cavalieros." How unsophisticated we then were — and how "little things" amused us! What greater thrill did life then offer, than a sickening trip on the old "scenic," with a giggling sweetheart clutching ones collar, timorously, yet ingeniously — (petting, in those days was not the child's-play that it is today. Oh dear no. One had to have a hide-bound excuse to even touch the brim of a girl's hat with your umbrella, in dirty old 1910!)—however, as I was saying, the curves of the "scenic" meant something, in those days, while "getting lost" with her in the "Maze" in the Japanese Tea Gardens, was a feat of devilry that on no account, must ever get back to mother!

All that has changed. The Gorge is now desolate, and barren of humanity. A few bathe there, in the Summer—but the yelp of the "hot-dog" is now strained and intermittent, and the old "Coney Island spirit" is definitely dead. And the old bridge is dying, too. 'Tis sad, indeed! Ah, well. The sands of the desert are many; every dog (hot or otherwise) has its day; the paths of Glory lead but to the Grave; the Valiant never taste of death but once; dead men tell no tales, etc., etc., etc., so, before we all drop dead in our tracks, let's drop this one, like poor old Yorick's mouldy old skull, into its cold, cold grave, and get on with our hemstitching.

So Ramsay MacDonald feels "bucked up," over his little "tete-a-tete" with Monsieur Roosevelt! That's excellent—and it also gives me an opening to drivel about the oddities, etc., of British slang, as opposed to what goes on in America. I'll commence, then, with the Premier's own little lapse into the lewdness of modern speech — namely, "bucked up." "Bucked up," in America, would be "pepped up," "hopped up," "feelin' like a million," or "sittin' on top of the world."

"That chap gives me the pip," would, in the Land of Recently Uncorked Beer, be "that yegg gives me a pain in the neck," or, "gets in my hair."

In the U.S.A., one "lambastes" or "socks" a pill over the "grandstand," whereas in Merrie England, they conservatively, "tonk" it, over the "dear old pavvy."

The British "snifter" bursts into a "shot" or "jolt" after crossing the Atlantic, while a "priceless old bean" losses its vegetable value, to turn into a "reggeler guy," or a "swell feller."

The old-English "putrid" in the States, becomes "Lousy;" "Oh rats" becomes "Aw nerts;" "Blighter" becomes "Bozo;" "Piddlesticks, to you" becomes "Nuts, to you;" a "flapper" grows feathers and becomes a "chicken;" "Good morning, your Majesty" becomes "Hya, King! Glad to meetchya';"; "Britannia rules the Waves" becomes "Nuts to you — America does!" etc., etc. — all of which is quite, quite stupid, I'm afraid.

Now then, "Brother XII," what's all the fireworks about? The camera never lies, and yesterday's Morning Journal was just peppered with photographs of broken windows, demolished strongholds, scuttled galleons, etc., all of which knaveries we're presumably part of your little game of "Tit for tat," to make things more unpleasant than ever, for Mary Conally and the rest of the "finely-chiseled" Brothers. Let me tell you, "Brother XII" (where the devil are you, anyway?), that this sort of vindictiveness is in very bad odour. You had your fun, while it lasted, and now, since the Canadian Courts have metaphorically singed your whiskers, there's no sense being a sort of bearded "moose-in-the-manger." Doubtless, you're still thought very highly of, by Isis and Osiris, and all the Signs of the Zodiak—so, why not be content with that, and stop hacking chunks off British Columbia! Anyway—go and get a shave and don't come back 'til the ice melts on the 99th parallel.

Salaams, by the rod, pole and perch, to the Blue Ribbons! Last night they covered themselves with a glory that shines only on the bodies of the Great. To a house packed with enthusiasts, and hoarse with shouting, they dished out a brand of basketball which even outsavored the brand of coffee that they symbolize. It was a real "Western thriller" from start to finish, and Victoria is proud of 'em. Salaams, Blue Ribbons—"You sure done right by our Nell" this time.

No letter to the Editor will be inserted except over the proper signature and address of the writer. This rule admits of no exception.

CONSERVATIVE POLITICS

Sir,—Congratulations, Sir, on your leader re the abdication of the Provincial executive of the Conservative party. And your arguments set out, are the same as advanced by the Vancouver Island delegates to the meeting on Saturday last, who maintained:

1. The resolution to digress from the tenets of the party at the forthcoming election were out of order in view of a unanimous motion adopted at the last annual meeting, which referred the same question back to the district associations for their consideration prior to its disposition at a Provincial convention.

2. In the adoption of such a resolution the Provincial executive was assuming to itself the powers contained only in a conventional body assembled.

3. We maintained no sane arguments could be advanced to establish a difference of responsibility under our constitution between Federal and Provincial issues and such a resolution as advanced could only be offered in the interest of party factors.

And in order to keep the executive body in the clear on this matter an amendment was offered referring the question to a convention of the party at the earliest possible date.

This amendment was defeated on a division by a solid vote of the Vancouver city delegates. Following this decision of the executive, another motion to call a provincial convention was defeated by the same vote, when an amendment was adopted requiring every district association in the province to declare its wishes as to the calling of a convention at the earliest possible moment. That's where the matter now rests.

The only purpose of this letter is in order that the general membership of the party may be advised as to who was responsible for the adoption of this nefarious resolution, whose only purpose was to bring about further disruption within our ranks, rather than give the party as a whole an opportunity to voice its opinions on the political wisdom of departing from the tenets of the party as set out in the constitution. WILLIAM C. WINKEL.

Executive Member, 218 Simcoe Street, Victoria, B.C., May 4, 1933.

RADIO RECEPTION

Sir,—Mr. Parsonage's letter in your May 3 issue re radio broadcasting was very much to the point, but he war far too lenient in his remarks. Why the Government should lay down certain rules regarding radio and have no means of enforcing them is beyond the average listener.

Last Fall, as a result of repeated complaints of interference, the local radio branch traced the source to the rectifiers in the city light plant, and I believe our Council was so notified. It very promptly passed the buck to the Government on the grounds it got a $2 licence fee, and there the matter stands. Meantime listeners in the district from Bay Street to Hillside Avenue and out to the city limits are supposed to grin and bear it, until the plant wears out, I presume. I believe there is also more or less filtering of this interference into other city circuits. In the district mentioned there is probably $75,000 worth of radios purchased prior to three years ago working less than 2 per cent efficient, and while it is true the Government collects a $2 fee, might I also point out the city collects a business license from the radio dealers, who cannot do any business in this territory. As I understand it, to remedy the trouble, three chokes are needed on each of the seventeen circuits, fifty-one in all. These chokes the Radio Branch offered to wind at cost, same being about 1.25 each, plus slight cost for installation, or a total cost of around $100.

If the Council cannot see its way to spend this amount (which is less than the Government spent locating the trouble), may I ask that the City Electrician be instructed to switch all the equipment, etc., from this district to any one of the other sixteen circuits.

We have endured this nuisance for over three years and feel that it is only fair to pass a good (or bad) thing along.

H. S. HOWARD.

THE BOOK OF BOOKS

Sir,—In the editorial column of Sunday's issue of The Colonist there appeared an article under the above caption. It was not my intention to refer to the item, as I fully expected someone more capable would take the matter up and congratulate the writer for such a magnificent defence of the Bible. I have heard many things from pulpits and elsewhere. Seldom, if ever, have I heard a stronger plea for the Bible than is contained in the item referred to; such a writer is not only an asset to society but a credit to the paper in whose columns the article appeared.

The general impression is that the tendency of an editor of a modern paper is to disparage or lessen the importance of the Bible. The fact of the item emanating from the columns of such a paper seems to add to its force. Whoever the author is, he is entitled to the very highest commendation for his magnificent defence of the Book of Books.

W. J. MacKAY.

A CORRECTION

Sir,—An omission in the printing of my letter in this morning's issue makes it look bad for Victoria. Looking over copy, before "Victoria" and after the words "statistics from," should be the words "Religion. You say that Congregationalists have disappeared from."

I should be glad if you will make that correction.

WHITE GATES

(According to legend, fairies can only visit a house which has a white gate and a crooked, pebble pathway leading to the front door.)

Some day when I am old, lassie,
And no longer I can roam;
When from the paths of labor
My weary steps turn home,
I'll hope to find that little gate,
All white, and clean, and still,
Standing as when we said good-bye
That night upon the hill.
And you and I in twilight's charm
Shall sit and bide the while,
And watch the lovers spooning
By the crooked country style.
Then, when the sun has disappeared
And folks have gone to rest,
We'll watch that little white-washed gate
That is so strangely blest,
For fairies always come my love
And dance away the night
For people who have pebbled paths
And gates of snowy white.
—Theo L. J. Greenslade.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of May 5, 1883.)

New Schooner—The fine new schooner, Clara Boscowitz, lying at Dickson and Campbell's wharf, has now set her three masts in. Her sails are lying alongside the wharf, awaiting installation. It is expected that the ship will be completed in the next two weeks.

Ship Burns—Reports from Seymour Narrows indicate that the steamer Grenpoler was destroyed by fire Sunday. From earliest reports, it is expected that at least fifty passengers were burned to death in the wreck. Ships were dispatched from Vancouver with greatest speed, but arrived too late for any material assistance. Surviving passengers were landed at the Narrows. The fire was first suspected by the engineer, who gave the alarm.

Personal Notes—W. J. Dutton, head of one of the largest insurance companies in San Francisco, arrived in town yesterday, and is registered at the Driard House. He is accompanied by Mrs. Dutton. Mr. Dutton plans an extensive fishing trip Up-Island in the near future.

Forbes-Robertson Group Awarded Festival Honor

"The Chinese Fragment," a Chinese Fantasy, Secures First Place in B.C. Competition Here Last Night—Will Be Contender in Finals

Forbes-Robertson players scored a distinctive triumph in their offering, "The Chinese Fragment," at the British Columbia Drama Festival here last night, and well earned the applause of the large audience as well as the award of the adjudicators. This group of players will likely be a close contender for the major honors, which will be decided on Saturday night.

"The Chinese Fragment," an adaptation by Ethel Reese Burns, who also directed the play, was the finale for the evening's productions, and the players are to be heartily congratulated for their very excellent presentation, which was exceptionally good considering the technical difficulties in staging and the need of carrying the imagination of the audience, without which the whole effect of the play would have been lost.

"POETIC DREAM"

The Forbes-Robertson play was, to use the phrase of the director, "a poetic dream." It concerned the love of a Chinese maiden of high birth for the lowly secretary of her father's household. The incense bearer (Gertrude Partridge) denotes the passing of time, and the play is wholly make-believe, and is presented to the audience in fragments, each fragment telling in quaint lines the episodes of the love birds. The climax, however, is somewhat gruesome, as the Mandarin dispatches the lovers with a couple of lunges of a wicked-looking sword.

The principals were Koong Shee (Noel Cusack), Chang (Archie MacCorkindale), and the Mandarin (A. M. D. Fairbairn). The property man, who plays an important part in furnishing the "props" for the actors, is Roy Shadbolt. As in all Chinese dramas, enunciation plays an important part, and all players in the cast possessed the faculty of sustaining the dialogue without any attempt to overwork their individual parts. The players were perfectly at ease and there was no need for prompting. The award of the adjudicators was a popular one with the audience.

INTEREST IS KEEN

As the festival nears its close, the interest is becoming intense, especially among the younger people who seem to be taking a keen interest in the presentations. The Crystal Garden auditorium last night was well filled, a tribute to the directors of the festival and to the players in the individual groups.

There were four separate plays last night. All of them were well done. Two of them were of the comedy drama class, the winning award, a fantasy, and the fourth, "The Dance Below," a gruesome presentation, but nevertheless, one that came a pretty close second in the race for the laurels.

OTHER PLAYS

The plays presented were "The Dance Below," by the Victoria Little Theatre Association, produced by Hudson Strode and Larry Horultral, and directed by Vivien Combe, with the following players: John Anderstrom, Fraser Lister and Noel Cusack.

"Wurzel Flummery" was given by the Fairfield Players. It was a production by A. A. Milne and directed by Mrs. G. Nixon. The following took part: Harry Eke, Marjorie Siddall, Gwendolyn Cox, Genille Browne-Cave, Douglas Nixon and Janie Williams.

"The Trousseau" was the presentation of the New Thought Temple Dramatic Club. The comedy was produced by Glen Hughes and directed by Edeth Scott-Burritt, with the following cast of players: Jean Speedie, Mrs. M. Stephens, E. Grimmond, Mrs. E. C. Head, W. C. Ellis, Jack Harvey and W. Grant.

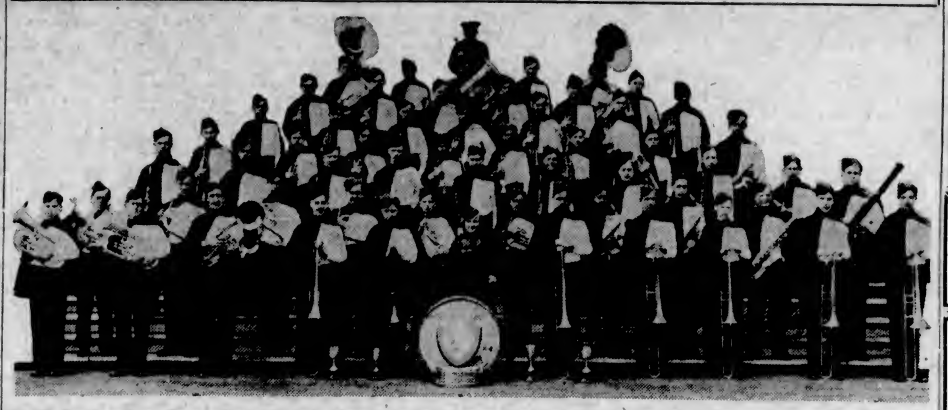
Will Present Four Programmes in Victoria



THE Kitsilano Boys Band will give its first concert tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock, in the City Temple, as a benefit performance to send it to Chicago on August 19, to compete in the world's band contest. The band will also play at 3 o'clock, on Sunday afternoon, at an open air concert on the top of Mount Tolmie; from 7 to 7:30 o'clock in a prelude programme to the evening service at the City Temple, and at 9 o'clock a grand finale in a sacred and classical concert also at the City Temple auditorium. The band received high praise from Yorke Bowen, the adjudicator, when it appeared at the recent Musical Festival in Victoria. Mrs. Edward Parsons will be the guest soloist at the performance tomorrow night, while Miss Eileen Bennett will render vocal solos at the Sunday night concert.

Mourn Passing of Mrs. M. L. McDowall

On Thursday, at the family residence, 1160 Chapman Street, there passed away Mrs. Millicent Louisa McDowall, wife of Ernest P. McDowall, aged fifty-eight years. She was born in London, England, and had been a resident of this city for the past four years.

She is survived by her husband, one son, Bruce, and a daughter, Ellen, at home; her parents, two brothers, and one sister in England.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from Sands Mortuary, Ltd., Chapel. Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick will officiate and the remains will be laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

OBYPA CLUB

A resume of the living religions of the world was continued at the regular meeting of the Obypa Club, at the Oak Bay United Church, on Tuesday. Miss Jean Betts, convener for the evening, introduced each speaker. Miss Lena Grant spoke on "Mohammedanism"; Miss Mary Hallas, on "Taoism"; Miss Garrie Whyte, on "Buddhism," and Mr. C. A. Gibbard, on "Judism." Mr. Wilfred Summerfield brought the talks to a close with "Christianity." Next week, in place of the talk on the great peace topic, "Swords or Ploughshares," led by Mr. Gibbard, members will take part in discussions on different aspects of life in Russia and the experiences of visitors from this part of the world to that country. Definite news will be given to the members next week of plans for the May 24 holiday.

MAJOR BROWN SPEAKING HERE

Past President of Vancouver Board to Address Chamber of Commerce Today

The annual general meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will be held at 12:15 o'clock today, in the dining-room of the chamber's auditorium, in the Arcade Building. The members will have luncheon, after which the newly-elected officers and members of the board of directors will be officially installed, the report of the retiring board received and the statement of finances presented for adoption.

The principal speaker will be Major Harold Brown, general manager of the Union Steamship Company and past president of the Vancouver Board of Trade, who has had wide experience in community organizations and commercial enterprises.

At this meeting the election of president and vice-president for the chamber will be announced. R. H. B. Ker, retiring president, will be in charge of the meeting today.

SACRED CONCERT WELL RECEIVED

Trio of Artists Give Splendid Programme of Vocal and Organ Numbers at St. John's

An enjoyable organ and vocal vocal concert was given in St. John's Anglican Church, last night, by Joseph Moore, visiting tenor, Miss Moore, member of the St. John's Choir, and G. Jennings Burnett.

Mr. Moore revealed a voice full of resonance and warmth, while Miss Moore, who sang in a duet with Mr. Moore, rendered her selection with a clarity of tone that was delightfully sweet and true.

Mr. Burnett played a repertoir of his own compositions, by special request. One hardly knows which of the selections to choose as the predominating piece. The choice, however, might be narrowed down to either his Prelude in E Flat Major, or his "Supplication," with perhaps a slight preference for the latter, on account of its more defined theme and the beautiful chime effects, which at no time were over-stressed.

The programme was as follows: Organ Prelude in D Major; recitative, "Ye People Rend Your Harts," and an aria, "If With All Your Hearts," from "Elijah" (Mendelssohn); organ, "The Seraph's Song"; vocal, "Lead, Kindly Light" (Pughe Evans); organ, Allegretto Scherzando; vocal, "The Sorrows of Death," hymn of praise (Mendelssohn); organ, Prelude in E Flat Major; vocal duet, with Miss Moore, "Love Divine" (Stainer); organ, "Supplication"; vocal, "How Many Hired Servants," "Prodigal Son" (Sullivan); organ, Minuet in the style of Handel; vocal, "Benediction" (Nicholls).

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the new Esquimalt drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

The freight agent on the C. & N.W. Railroad received a shipment in which was a donkey, described on the freight bill as "one burro." After checking the goods carefully the agent made his report: "Short, one bureau; over, one jackass."

Death Removes Mrs. M. Nobbs at Residence Here

The death occurred at 1541 North Dairy Road, on Wednesday, of Mrs. Martha Nobbs, aged sixty-eight years. Mrs. Nobbs was born at Bel-na-Garick, Ireland, and came to Canada forty-two years ago. For many years she made her home in Victoria, but during the last three years resided at 1541 North Dairy Road.

She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Annie Rogers, of Fanny Bay; Mrs. Dave West, of Oakland; Mrs. Emma Johns, of San Francisco; Mrs. Nellie Snyder, of Seattle, and Mrs. Jeanette Walsh, of Victoria. A sister, Mrs. Charles McCarthy, of Keating, also survives.

The remains rest at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, where the funeral service will be held at 3:15 o'clock on Saturday. Interment will be made at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Presbyterian Y.P.S. Holds Joint Meeting

A Spring rally, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Young People's Association of the Presbytery of Victoria, was held in St. Andrew's Church. A large group of young people was present, representing the Young People's Societies from St. Paul's, Knox, Chinese and St. Andrew's Churches. Mr. E. L. McIntyre, president, was in the chair.

The meeting opened with devotional services, when Mr. Robert Trousdale, St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E., read the Scripture lesson and led in prayer. Mrs. J. S. Patterson, contralto, sang a beautiful solo, "Thanks Be to God." A short business meeting was held, when Solomon Leung, treasurer, gave a financial report. Arrangements were made for an outing, to be held under the auspices of the association, on Labor Day. Discussion took place regarding the leaders' training camp, to be held during the Summer, at Gordon Head.

Mr. Frank Paulding, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. gave an inspiring address on "Youth at the Crossroad." A short song service was held under the leadership of Mr. James. Refreshments were served.

SORCERY CHARGE AGAINST PRINTER

Errors in Gutenberg Bibles Led to Belief Witchcraft Was Being Practiced

MONTREAL (CP).—Being poor and in great need of money after the death of Gutenberg, his master, Fust took some Gutenberg printed Bibles to Paris and sold them as manuscripts. Master Gutenberg had had the good sense to print his Bibles in the same Gothic script used by the copist monks so Fust did a lively trade. But the purchasers of the "counterfeit" manuscripts soon made a remarkable discovery—the manuscripts all had the same errors in exactly the same places. This must be sorcery! So Master Fust went to the Bastille on a charge of having written with human blood, only to be later released, by order of the King himself, on condition he give France the secret of his new method.

Such was one of the semi-historical, semi-legendary anecdotes Fernand Caillet, head instructor in printing at the Montreal Technical School, told in an address on the history of printing.

Gutenberg, commonly accepted as the inventor of printing, was denied the title by Mr. Caillet, who said moveable types such as used by the great German had been found in the ruins of Herculaneum and Pompeii. Why was not printing used on a grand scale before Gutenberg? Simply because there was no call for it. People who could read were few and far between and the copist monks, patiently transcribing, illuminating, sometimes even adding, omitting or commenting upon the works handled, were well able to meet the demand for manuscripts.

Mr. Caillet deplored the "dark age of printing, the 19th century with its appalling ornamentation and its bewildering variation." A revolt against the tradition was begun early this century and led by the United States, European countries reported to "fine simplicity" again.

The lecturer sketched the influence of artistic movements—impressionism, cubism, etc.—on printing and described nationality in printing, pointing to the difference especially between German, French and English books from a purely typographical viewpoint.

Little Bedtime Stories

Why Blacky the Crow Chuckled

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS—

All the way home after his visit with Old Man Coyote that windy afternoon Blacky the Crow chuckled. After he reached his favorite roost in a thick hemlock tree in the Green Forest, he chuckled. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he chuckled in his sleep that night. He was quite satisfied with himself, was Blacky. Having no one else to talk to he talked to himself.

"You did that very cleverly, very cleverly indeed, Blacky," said he. "I'm proud of you. Yes, I am; I'm proud of you. Old Man Coyote is very clever. There is no one more clever excepting yourself."

Here Blackie pretended to make himself a bow, and then chuckled more than ever. "But clever as he is, Old Man Coyote hasn't the least idea that you went up there to the Old Pasture in all this wind just to visit him," he continued. "He thinks you just happened to stop there because you were tired and out of breath. Naturally he wasn't the least bit suspicious. He thinks it was just chance that you happened to mention Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse and how fat they are. Ho, ho, ho! Did you see the hungry look that came into his eyes when you mentioned them? He made up his mind right then and there that he was going to try for them at the very first opportunity, and that's what you want him to do. Blacky, you certainly are a clever fellow. You are the cleverest fellow I know of."

"Who is such a clever fellow?" asked a voice most unexpectedly. It was the voice of Sammy Jay, who happened to be passing on his way to his own favorite resting place and had overheard Blacky's last words.

"You, Cousin Sammy. You, of course. Who else could I mean?" replied Blacky promptly.

"If I thought you really meant that I would feel very much flattered, Cousin Blacky. Whoever you intended it for it was a great compliment," retorted Sammy. "I believe we are going to have a storm tonight, so I must hurry on and made ready for it. Good night, Cousin Blacky, and just a word to the wise—be careful how you talk aloud to yourself."

Sammy was gone before Blacky could think of a reply. After that he wisely kept his tongue quiet. "I wonder how much he overheard," thought Blacky. "He is an imprudent chap is my cousin, Sammy Jay, but I guess the rascal was right about being careful in what I say. It would have been very unfortunate if Old Man Coyote had happened along and overheard me. All my planning would have gone for nothing. As it is I think Old Man Coyote will do just what I want him to do and won't know he is doing it for me at all. He'll give Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse a fright that will send them scurrying home and will keep them there for a while. When they think he has gone away Danny will poke his head out of that little round doorway which is nearest his home, and I will be waiting right there. I am glad it is going to storm tonight because it will keep Old Man Coyote from hunting for Danny tonight. Then he will go straight there the first thing tomorrow morning. It is funny how you can make people, even smart, clever people do things you want them to and all the time they will think they are doing them for their own accord." Once again Blacky began to chuckle, and chuckling, fell asleep.

Passed Street Car—David Evans, motorist, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, was convicted and fined $10 in the city police court, yesterday, for passing a street car while a passenger was alighting from it.

Community Club—Plans for a garden party, to be held at the home of Lady Emily Walker, president, were made at a meeting of the Esquimalt Community Club, on Monday evening. The garden party will be held on Wednesday, June 7. Mrs. J. S. Patterson was the soloist.

Fine Is Imposed—Nee Mong, a merchant of Fisgard Street, was convicted yesterday in the city police court of violating the early closing by-law by selling a few pork chops on the evening of April 30. He was fined $10 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate George Jay.

Community Group Meets—The Foul Bay Junior Community Association will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Presbyterian Hall. The committee on ways and means will ask for suggestions regarding social activities for the Summer months.

Revellers' Club—Reports that the fifth annual banquet of the Revellers' Club was a complete success were submitted at a meeting of the club on Wednesday. A softball team was organized, and times set for practices. A fishing trip is planned for the near future.

In Full Bloom—Standing in the grounds of the home of Mrs. A. Mitchell, 641 Superior Street, a crab apple tree in full blossom is now at its prettiest, and is drawing much attention from passers-by. The tree will be at its best for about a week, Mrs. Mitchell explains, and is a mass of bloom.

Again Remanded—In the absence of the court clerk yesterday, Magistrate Jay postponed the passing of judgment in the charge against W. D. Johnson, charged in the Saanich court with retaining possession of a window belonging to George McMorran. Judgment will be given next Thursday.

Suspended Sentence — Magistrate Jay yesterday gave his decision with regard to a charge of attempting to steal some vegetables laid against Clarence Stevenson, which was tried a few days ago in the city police court. The magistrate allowed the accused out on suspended sentence, with a warning for the future.

Postpones Decision—Police Magistrate Jay will give his decision in the charges against Frederick Bates and John Knight on Monday next. The accused are charged in the Esquimalt police court with having done damage to the barricade which had been placed to prevent traffic across the Gorge Bridge.

Surveyors Listed — Three Victoria surveyors are included in an additional list of surveyors licensed to practise in British Columbia, gazetted this week. They are R. C. Farrow, Alfred Haggen and H. E. Hobson. A. B. Root, of Vancouver, and F. G. De Wolf, of Vernon, are others added to the existing roster.

Appointed Liquidator—Charles A. Welsh, formerly chairman of the Lower Mainland Dairy Products Sales Adjustment Committee, has been appointed as liquidator to wind up the affairs of the committee, which operated under the now defunct dairy sales statute. The order was made on a Supreme Court application, gazetted this week.

Players Entertained—Members of the visiting Windsor - Walkerville Alumni basketball team were guests at the Rotary Club yesterday. Along with them were the captain and vice-captain of the Blue Ribbons, and others associated with the two teams in the Canadian championship series being played here. They were introduced by Alderman James Adam and J. Johnson.

Ministers Away—Premier Tolmie, Hon. R. H. Pooley, K.C., and Hon. S. L. Howe have represented the Provincial Cabinet for most of this week, other ministers being distributed between Kelowna and Ottawa on various matters. Hon. R. W. Bruhn and Hon. W. A. Diplomas Awarded To Jubilee Nurses Who Finish Course

H. H. Shandley, H. Despard Twigg, M.P.P., and Mayor David Leeming Give Wise Counsel to Thirty-Nine Graduates—Prizes Presented

THIRTY-NINE nurses, who have been in training at the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital for the past three years, received their diplomas and badges at the impressive graduation exercises held at the First United Church last evening.

The event drew the usual enormous audience, every seat in the big auditorium being taken, and for half an hour after the conclusion of the formal part of the programme friends lingered to watch the distribution of the scores of magnificent baskets and bouquets of flowers that made a hedge of bloom about the platform.

The proceedings opened with the entrance of the graduates and probationers, the former taking seats in the pulpit, the latter occupying specially reserved seats in the middle of the auditorium. After Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson delivered the invocation and Miss Marjorie Watson sang Montague Philips' Spring-like paean, "Sing, Joyous Bird." Alfred Gurney, accompaning at the organ, the president of the board of directors, H. H. Shandley, addressed the nurses.

"PRINCIPAL COG"

"The student class is the principal cog in the machinery of a hospital. If good hospital service is not available to the public through the student nurses, it is not available in any other way," Mr. Shandley said, in tendering the directors' congratulations to the girls who had just concluded their three years' training in the hospital. At the same time he thanked them for their loyal services to the hospital and their adherence to the high ideals of nursing. They were now ready to start out independently; he trusted they would appreciate the excellent training they had received, and remember at all times that theirs was a vocation and not a business.

H. Despard Twigg, M.P.P., representing Dr. S. F. Tolmie, in the latter's unavoidable absence, brought the Premier's greetings and congratulations, and added to these his own good wishes that they would make a success of their chosen profession.

PROUD OF JUBILEE

"You should be very proud of having taken your training in the Jubilee Hospital, which has a proud tradition," said Mr. Twigg, who recalled that this hospital in 1891 established the first nurses' training school in the province, the late Dr. J. S. Helmcken giving the first address. In conclusion, Mr. Twigg reminded the graduates that nursing carried with it high ideals and high responsibilities toward the profession, toward the medical profession, and toward the patient. The war had given remarkable advertisement to the wonders of nursing, many lives having been saved by their kindness and unselfishness.

MAYOR SPEAKS

Mayor Leeming brought the good wishes of the city to the graduating nurses, to whom he held up for pattern Florence Nightingale, the founder of nursing in its modern sense, "an inspiration to every woman who takes up nursing, a woman who sacrificed everything of self in order to bring succor to the sick and wounded." Those who took up nursing could only make a success of it by complete abnegation of self. The Mayor also spoke with pride of the Jubilee Hospital, which provided the city with a splendid social service. Victoria, which last year contributed $80,000 to hospital funds, had reason to be vitally interested in the administration of such an institution.

VALEDICTORY

Miss E. Jane Wilson gave a very charming valedictory in which she expressed the thanks and appreciation of the class of 1933 to directors, medical and nursing superintendent, the doctors who had given the lectures, and various other friends who had helped to make the period of training so interesting.

A bouquet was presented by the graduates to Miss A. F. Mitchell, R.N., director of nursing, who occupied a seat on the platform with H. H. Shandley, president of the board of directors; Dr. Wilson, Mr. Twigg, Mayor Leeming, Mrs. R. S. Day, S. J. Drake and Dr. E. M. Pearse, medical superintendent. In the audience were several other directors, including Alderman J. A. Worthington, Hugh Allen, J. Vaughan Roberts, Captain George McGregor, James Forman, Dr. E. W. Boak, Alderman W. H. Kinsman and Alderman P. R. Brown.

Mr. Shandley awarded the diplomas, Dr. E. M. Pearse reading the graduates' names, and Miss Mitchell pinning badges on the following: Joan Mary Digby Russell, Mary Patience Downing, Beatrice Ethel Weiler, Vera Gertrude Oatway, Winnifred A. M. Fairweather, Marie Agnes Hemmingsen, Anna Kirstine Williams, Gladys Beatrice Beech, Dorothy F. Hornibrook, Sybil LaVerne McQuinn, Evelyn M. Armstrong, Margaret Allen Morrison, Flora Belle Thompson, Janet Helen Baillies, Mary Geraldine Portway, Irene Margaret Dale, Marjorie P. A. Knight, Cicely Margaret Cox, Gertrude Amy Little, Isobel Blythe, Mae Beatrice Cather, Lidia Rachel Feikert, Mary Alice James, Ethel Frieda Lowe, Dorothy Alma Lucas, Patricia Lewis, Kathleen Muckle, Joyce Plant, Agnus B. Robertson, Jessie Rothnie, Lilian Annie Stark, E. Jane Wilson, Maud Isabel Ault, Cecile F. Dack, Marjorie E. Fraser, Clara Edith Hayden, Ida C. Moffatt, Harriet Iris Turpel and Evelyn E. M. Toynbee.

The Robert S. Day Memorial Scholarship, presented by Mrs. R. S. Day, to the nurse attaining the highest degree of efficiency in theoretical and practical work, and also possessing qualities necessary for nursing: Won by Evelyn Jane Wilson.

Scholarship of $100, presented by the Jubilee Hospital Alumnae, for post graduate work: Won by Miss Catherine Murray, who has completed her course in Montreal, and is now on duty in Nanaimo Hospital.

Three scholarships of $25 each, presented by the board of directors: First, to the pupil in her junior year who stands highest in her practical work: Won by Gretchen Johnson. Second, to the pupil in her intermediate year who stands highest in her theoretical work: Won by Doris Hibberson. Third, to the graduate nurse of her year, other than the one who receives the Robert S. Day Memorial Scholarship, who attained the highest number of credits in her provincial examination: Won by Miss Joyce Collett, year 1932, who ranked highest in the province.

Results for the year 1933 not yet out.

Bursary, presented by the Graduate Nurses' Association, Victoria, B.C.: Won by Miss Margaret Smith.

Prize, presented by Dr. Richard Felton, for highest marks in examination on communicable diseases: Won by Miss Eileen Welch.

Women's Institutes

SOOKE

The regular meeting of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute was held at Mrs. Bremner's tearoom. Mrs. H. Slack presided. A donation will be forwarded to the Island secretary of the League of Nations. Conveners were appointed for the old-time dance to be held in Sooke Hall on Saturday.

It was decided to discontinue the fortnightly card parties for two months.

Tea was served by Mesdames Gray, W. Cains and R. Kirby.

Cricketers Hold Dance At Empress

The cricketers' dance at the Empress Hotel last evening was a most enjoyable affair and a success from every standpoint. The association had established a precedent by the first dance of the series a short time ago, and the majority of the guests who attended that gathering, as well as many additional dancers, were present last night. Following the basketball game, the teams and officials were welcomed at the dance, where they were the guests of the cricketers.

An excellent four-piece orchestra supplied the dance music and supper was served by the hotel management in the main dining-room for those who wished to avail themselves of this service.

In charge of the general arrangements for the dance were Messrs. Douglas Fletcher, Percy Payne, Percy Shrimpton, Reginald Wenman and E. Lock. The proceeds of the cricket dances will go towards the fund for improvements to the Macdonald field.

Concert for Chinese Work Huge Success

Much credit should go to Miss Agnes Anderson and her staff at the Chinese Good Hope Mission for their excellent work in connection with training Oriental boys and girls, if the type of concert presented last night in the Mission Hall is indicative of the training carried out.

Pupils of Grade I, under Miss Anderson, provided the musical entertainment, while Frank Merryfield and Miss Francis Merryfield demonstrated magical tricks. Mrs. H. Shaw was the accompanist. N. S. Fraser was chairman. The performance will be repeated in the Mission Hall, 533 Johnson Street, on Saturday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

Proceeds will assist Mrs. R. B. Mosher's work among indigent Chinese of Victoria, which is carried out at 1428 Government Street.

Clubs and Societies

Central W.C.T.U.

Mrs. William Grant led the devotional period at the meeting of the Central W.C.T.U., held yesterday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A., taking an extract from the 16th Chapter of Philippians as the Scripture lesson. An inspiring message and prayer was given by Mrs. Grant. It was decided that the resolution petitioning the Provincial Government to forbid the sale of firearms without a permit be sent to the Local Council for its endorsement. Mrs. R. E. Collis reported that much interest was being taken in the essay and poster contest. Mrs. Collis and Mrs. A. E. Mitchell were appointed representatives from the Central W.C.T.U. to act on the committee formed from the four unions. Mrs. E. E. Hinsley reported good progress being made in the literary contest.

THOMAS VANCE WILLIAMS CALVIN EDWARD WILLIAMS MRS. CALVIN C. WILLIAMS & STEPHEN CHARLES JUDSON WILLIAMS HENRY KERR WILLIAMS

"I'm no martyr to a wash-board or a mending basket"

says Mother of five boys

"Surely this isn't the mother of these big boys—she must be their sister!" This is what you think when you meet jolly Mrs. Calvin C. Williams. She doesn't let herself get tired and old with hard rubbing on washday—not Mrs. Calvin C. Williams!

"CHIPSO soaks the dirt out of our big washes," she says. "No fear that clothes won't be clean after swirling in those grand Chipso suds! I don't have to rub them into rags. And everything's safe in Chipso."

That is the big point! Nothing can beat Chipso at getting out dirt—yet Chipso is SAFE, even for woolens and fine silks. So safe that clothes wear longer. It pays Mrs. Williams to use Chipso. She doesn't have to patch and darn all the time, or keep buying new clothes.

How can Chipso soak clothes clean so quickly—yet be so safe? Because Chipso is SOAPIER. You get thicker soapsuds with Chipso because it is not adulterated by harsh, "dirt-cutting" ingredients that injure clothes. Its rich suds bubble out dirt safely. It rinses quickly, leaving the clothes soft—shining clean—new looking.

Chipso is soft on your hands, too—simply grand for dishwashing! Get Chipso from your grocer. It is the best package-soap value in Canada today because it is richer and safer!

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

TED HAD A RIGHT TO MOAN

Those who have had the pleasure of playing bridge with my favorite male partner, Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, have noticed his habit of moaning at the bridge table. Ted's moans become most pronounced when things are going best with the partnership. However, the other day I watched a rubber in which he was playing against Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Phipps. When the hand was completed and Mr. Phipps had successfully made a rather ambitious grand slam contract, all of the kititzers conceded that Mr. Lightner did have some justification for his lamentation about the unhappy results of the hand.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Mr. Phipps

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	6♠	Pass (1)
7♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl. (2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1. Hoping that by some happy chance his opponents may reach a contract of seven.

2. The hope is realized and Mr. Lightner takes measures to punish his adversaries' temerity.

Mr. and Mrs. Phipps are a splendid slam-bidding combination, but in view of their holdings, they were possibly a little bit over-enthusiastic, either individually or collectively. Mr. Lightner's double of the slam was basically sound. He reasoned that with his (Mr. Lightner's) void in diamonds his partner's most likely lead was that suit. If a diamond was led, he could ruff and thus set the contract at once. If, at worst, his partner should lead a club, the ace would hold the trick, while the lead of a heart would establish a second-round trick in that suit in Mr. Lightner's hand. A further reason for Mr. Lightner's confidence in his ability to defeat the contract was that a double in this situation strongly suggested that the doubler was void of one suit. This would be an indirect request for the leader to open his longest suit.

It was so construed by Ted's partner, who, unfortunately for the success of the doubling strategy, held five clubs and but four diamonds and hence chose the club as his opening lead. Of course, the contract was made.

TOMORROW'S HAND

If you were South and had reached a contract of four hearts on the hand below, what method of play would you adopt to make the greatest number of tricks against the opening lead of the spade five?

West, Dealer,

Summer Styles Reflect Days of Victorian Era

Angus Campbell & Company Hold Attractive Fashion Shows at Store—Ruffles and Frills Accentuate Femininity

A real shopping wave followed the first of the fashion shows being held by Angus Campbell & Company, Limited, this week, and a large number of interested spectators gathered in the showroom of the store yesterday morning. So fascinating did they find the suits, frocks and hats, that many of the models were sold before noon, so that today's fashion parade and tomorrow's showing will be of necessity a little different, and some of the most attractive models from the collection in stock will be presented.

VICTORIAN INFLUENCE

One of the most noticeable characteristics of the show was the decided trend towards the Victorian era in dress. Puff sleeves, frills and ruffles will again be in fashion, and the soft "frou-frou" of silken petticoats will be heard again as milady moves about. That once-popular fabric, broderie Anglaise, has made its reappearance and was seen in a charming frock of white, shown by one of the models in a summery group of all-white frocks and suits, and seeing them, one realized anew the charm of white for Summer wear.

But one's allegiance to white was shaken by the group devoted to Summer evening dresses, when the loveliest colors made their appearance in such fabrics as lace and chiffon. One very smart black lace frock was complemented with a cape of white; pink, blue, royal blue, rose, beige and magenta and green were the colorings of other charming confections in this group.

Prints and checks are to be more popular than ever, these being shown in both the dressy afternoon gowns and in that most useful of innovations, the "Saturday night" frock, in which one lovely model was of black and red printed chiffon, another in blue and white check organdie, while a gold check chiffon gown in this group was charming in its feminity.

"GOLFEX" GROUP

"Golfex" has come to be synonymous with excellent cut, material and style, and the group devoted to these products included a very smart imported frock of the new waffle-wool, a two-piece spectator sports dress in gold Lastex, and one of the new "rabbit wool" effects in a becoming shade of green. Del Monte-Hickey coats comprised the second group shown, these stunning tailored models in the very newest tweeds with smart neck and sleeve effects evoking much admiration.

A feature of the style show was the display of two groups of afternoon gowns to suit the most modest purse, one group including a very smart navy and white check silk dress of fascinating design, another of green crepe of much appeal, and two charming gowns of the new triple sheer material. The second group of inexpensive frocks included a distinctive model in black crepe with a red and black top, a dainty hyacinth crepe of most becoming cut, one of the popular grey crepes and several in triple sheer in lovely and fashionable shades. In fact, the whole show is designed to meet the taste and purse of the woman whose purse is affected by the prevailing stringency, and to prove that it is by no means necessary to dress expensively to be smart.

Today's showing will be from 3 to 4 p.m., and at the same time tomorrow.

Bridge Tea By Chapter Is Success

The bridge tea held yesterday afternoon by the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the municipal headquarters was a great success, and in addition to the players, several tea guests were welcomed by the regent, Mrs. Colin Cummins.

Mrs. C. T. Teasdale, Mrs. W. Barrowclough and Mrs. J. Shaw, officers of the chapter, gave valuable assistance in arranging the affair, Miss Edith M. King and Miss Gill helping during tea.

The room was bright with Spring flowers and the I.O.D.E. standards added a note of color. On the tea table was a beautiful vase of red tulips, narcissi and fruit blossom, and tall green tapers were placed in silver candlesticks.

PLAYERS ATTENDING

The players were Mrs. Austin Gale, Mrs. James Roe, Mrs. George McMullin, Mrs. William Kersey, Mrs. Walter Burton, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. L. Lewin, Mrs. G. D. Clifford, Mrs. G. P. Player, Mrs. A. S. Christie, Mrs. J. Robson, Mrs. A. M. Boyd, Mrs. J. Donald, Mrs. R. Jaffray, Miss J. Kynoch, Mrs. Hilliard, Mrs. F. Richardson, Mrs. Anthony, Mrs. Guilliod, Mrs. E. Bennett-Thompson, Mrs. J. A. Philipsen, Mrs. W. J. Goepel, Mrs. E. Godson, Mrs. R. Dwyer, Miss L. E. Moore, Miss Hill, Miss J. Pigot, Miss H. Taylor, Mrs. T. D. Brae, Mrs. C. Rogers, Mrs. Thorne, Mrs. Ditcham, Miss E. Taylor, Miss C. L. Goodeve, Mrs. E. Patterson, Mrs. G. S. Waller, Mrs. T. B. Monk, Mrs. W. L. McIntosh, Miss Worsley, Mrs. Norman Worsley, Mrs. Treherne, Miss McMullin, Mrs. Denbigh, Mrs. Fairbairn, Mrs. Purvis, Miss Hamber, Mrs. W. Ellis Brown, Mrs. J. W. Hudson, Mrs. Carron Jameson, Mrs. Walter Walker, Mrs. David Doig, Miss K. Renny, Mrs. B. Combe and Miss J. Crease.

The tea guests were Miss Gill, Mrs. B. J. Jones, Mrs. Vantreight, Mrs. W. S. Williams, Mrs. T. R. Meyers, Mrs. R. B. McMicking, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. S. T. Rose, Mrs. Walter, Mrs. Kyrle Symons, Mrs. L. A. Genge, Miss E. King and Mrs. Edwards.

Excavations near an old city on the lower Rhine have disclosed that a row of shops lined both sides of the Via Principalis, the "main street" of the camp of the Fifth and Fifteenth Legions of Rome. Arcades ran along in front of the shops.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

—Photograph by Foxall Studio.

MR. and Mrs. Joseph Patrick, of 950 Joan Crescent, who on Sunday will attain the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, which took place in South Durham, Ontario, on May 7, 1883. Mr. Patrick, who is in his seventy-sixth year, is the son of the late Thomas Patrick, of Cook's County, Ireland, who emigrated to Canada about 1850 with his wife and those of their children who were born in the Old Land. Mrs. Patrick's father was Robert V. Nelson, of Carlton Place. They moved to British Columbia about 1907, living four years in Nelson before they came to Victoria to make their home here.

On Sunday, which is also Mrs. Patrick's birthday, they will have with them their complete family of eight children and thirteen grandchildren, also two brothers and a sister of Mr. Patrick, who were present at his wedding fifty years ago. The sons and daughters who are gathering here for the celebration are Lester Patrick, of New York and Victoria; Frank Patrick and Mrs. J. Wesley Miller (Lucinda), of Vancouver; Edward Patrick, of Seattle; Mrs. G. A. Strickland (Dora), of Vancouver; Mrs. W. J. Scott (Myrtle), of Victoria; Guy W. Patrick, of Vancouver, and Stanley Patrick, of Vancouver.

Social and Personal Notes

Surprise Party

A surprise party was given Rev. J. H. A. Warr, Wednesday evening, by the Metropolitan Young People's organization, when a large number of the members entertained him. After taking part in a number of interesting games, everyone gathered round a festive board especially decorated with a birthday cake in the shape of a lighthouse (the Y.P. symbol) and flowers in celebration of Mr. Warr's birthday. On behalf of the society, Mr. Donald McCain presented the guest of the evening with an address of appreciation of his work with young people during the past two years, and with a beautiful leather brief case. Mr. Warr suitably replied. Among the members present were Mr. Donald McCain, president; Evelyn Hudson, Jessie Christopher, Muriel Sprinkling, Diana Stevenson, Doris Smith, Bessie Williamson, Thelma Cave, Vina Erskine, Laura Vye, Catherine Craig, Florence Leslie, Phylis Turner, Albert Wood, Bert Simpson, Genevieve Knapp, Edith White, Douglas Ritchie, Jean Lorimer, James Taylor, Frank Whiting, Jack Tatham, Kenneth Cronk, Ova Morrow, Myrna Fuller, William Dawson, Zoe Richards, Lillian Smethurst, David Tuck, Ida Tatham, M. Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Turpin, of "Villa Grazie," Rockland Avenue, who are on their way back to Victoria after nearly two years' absence in Europe, reached their old home in Dayton, O., recently. The following chatty item, which appeared in the Dayton News just a few days ago under an excellent picture of Mr. Turpin, will be read with interest by their many friends here:

So rare as to be nearly phenomenal is the possession of a singing voice, still retaining its youthful timbre, by a man who has passed his seventy-fifth birthday.

Harry Browne Turpin, who up to last February had not sung a note for thirty-five years, has found that time has not lessened the beauty of his baritone voice, and he has been singing for his friends during his visit here.

SPENT WINTER IN ITALY

Mr. Turpin, who is closely identified with the musical history of Dayton, forty and fifty years ago, has, with Mrs. Turpin, been staying at the Biltmore Hotel for the past five weeks, having stopped in this city en route to their Summer home in Victoria, after having spent the Winter in Florence, Italy.

He was born in Dayton in 1857 and studied vocal in Italy, later appearing on the concert stage throughout this country. During his present visit he has been bringing by his singing reminiscences of the years that are gone.

He recalls with interest a music festival given in Dayton over thirty years ago when many artists of note were brought to this city to take part in the programme. Mr. Turpin was in charge of the festival, and he now amiliingly observes, "We came out only $1.95 in the hole."

MEMORIES OF JENNY LIND

His memories of Jenny Lind and her superb voice are many. During his appearance in a concert in London, England, Mr. Turpin was accompanied by Jenny Lind's husband, Otto Goldschmidt. The past Winter Mr. and Mrs. Turpin visited the famous soprano's daughter, Mrs. Maude, at the latter's home in England. Mrs. Maude recalled to them how her mother made $400,000 in her first Winter of concerts in this country, $100,000 of which she gave to the poor of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Turpin have been entertained extensively during their stay here. Last Wednesday at the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey King at their home on N. Robert Boulevard, Mr. Turpin, with Mrs. King at the piano, gave a programme of songs. He played the organ at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. King, fifty years ago.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. King and Mr. Turpin will give another programme of songs at the farewell reception for Mr. and Mrs. Turpin, to be given by Mrs. Louise McIntyre at her home on McEwen Road. Mr. and Mrs. Turpin will leave Monday morning by motor for California.

Anglican Young People

St. Mark's

The regular meeting of St. Mark's Senior A.Y.P.A. was held in the parish hall, Wednesday evening, with the president in the chair. Minutes of previous meeting were adopted, together with correspondence dealing with St. Martin's dance, on May 10, and St. Paul's "at home," on May 12. Members are asked to support the new branch of St. Martin's by attending. A report was read on the local council meeting. Buttons were available for members to sell to raise money for advertising, in connection with the church restoration fund. Arthur Matcham was appointed captain of the mixed softball team. May 31 was set as nomination night for officers for next year. On Monday, May 15, Dean Quainton, with a number of young people, will visit St. Mark's and talk to the A.Y.P.A. on the Oxford Group Movement. Final arrangements were made for the dance on Friday evening, the proceeds of which are going to the church restoration fund.

Important Announcement

All members of the A.Y.P.A. are asked to watch for an important announcement which will be made in this column on Sunday.

I.O.D.E. Activities

Cowichan Chapter

Cowichan Chapter held its monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the Agricultural Hall, Duncan, the regent, Mrs. Dawson-Thomas, occupying the chair. Arrangements were made for the annual Empire Day service on May 23. Rev. H. F. Napier has consented to give the address on that occasion. Plans are well in hand for Alexandra Rose Day, and the chapter's annual garden fete in June was also discussed.

Anniversary Service

Members of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, are asked to attend the service to be held in Christ Church Cathedral, commencing at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, this being the anniversary of the accession of His Majesty King George.

BURNSIDE BOWLERS

An attempt will be made to close the popular Saturday evening socials, at Burnside, next Saturday. The forty-eight members who have qualified to play in the final special event will be marshaled at twelve tables. The roll will be called at 8:15 o'clock, and each member will draw for his or her position. Members and visitors who are not engaged in the special prize event will be entertained in an extra competition for two additional prizes. During the refreshment period, a vote will be taken to ascertain how many are in favor of the socials being continued through the Summer Saturdays, from 9 to 11 p.m. All patrons of the club are invited to be present and to express their view on the question.

SIDNEY Y.P.S.

The Sidney Y.P.S. held a social evening recently, at which they entertained their parents. The evening was spent in varied entertainment, which included tableaux and games. Two talks were given by Miss Laura Lane and Mr. A. Thornton. Refreshments were served.

MYSTERY MAN GAINS PARDON

Identified by Two Wives as Wealthy Professor and Convicted Thief

VERONA, Italy, May 4 (AP).—Italy's celebrated "mystery man," who was released from prison in Fallanza on Tuesday, still insists he is not the person whose sentence he was obliged to serve and whose identity court after court has forced upon him despite his protests.

He returned to Verona yesterday to resume life as Professor Guilo Canella, wealthy and respected, who disappeared while in service during the war. His wife agreed he is the professor. The state, however, says he is Marlo Bruneri, a convicted thief, who also disappeared years ago. Signora Bruneri avers he is Bruneri.

DUAL IDENTIFICATION

Time after time while he was in prison Signora Canella sought to prove that an error was made when he was identified as Bruneri, but time after time Signora Bruneri convinced the court the identification was correct.

Finally, the King's general pardon, granted to thousands of offenders on the recent anniversary of Fascist rule, came to his aid. The remainder of his term was cut to six months, but the state did not alter its decision that he is Bruneri.

Saanich Welfare Group Gives Aid To Many Persons

Mrs. N. Dealey, secretary-treasurer of the Saanich Welfare Association, reported at a meeting of the organization yesterday that 221 families, representing a total of 879 persons, had been assisted during April. This brings the total to date of those given aid, 1,659 families.

It was reported that 1,000 packets of seed had been distributed to needy people during April for gardening purposes. Final arrangements were made for a garden party to be held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Carr, Gordon Head, on the afternoon of June 7. An enthusiastic committee is now at work preparing booths for the event, the proceeds of which will go towards the association's funds.

Customer—"Any celery?"

Cockney Waiter—"Very small, sir. We 'as to rely on tips from gentlemen like yerself, sir."

MURDER IN EDEN

by Charles Winfield Smith

CHAPTER XXXIV

When Jere Kane returned to his hotel he was more in a funk than ever before. He had spent a hard day, not physically, but oftimes mental fatigue is far more exacting than is the physical.

He frankly admitted to himself that he did not know which way to turn next. He had exhausted all his resources, or thought he had, in an effort to find the elusive "Buddy" to whom Bailey continually referred in his diary. What if Dorotha's sister was the "Buddy?" If she was, his case would have been clear enough but for one fact.

Dorotha would have had ample reason to kill Bailey but for that one fact—she did not know until Sunday to what depths her sister had descended and Bailey was murdered Saturday night. More than that, Evelyn Deane had refused to name the man who had betrayed her, so Dorotha would have had no just reason to suspect Bailey, unless it was his generally-accepted reputation as a Don Juan.

On the other hand, suppose Evelyn Deane—Buddy—had done what the director feared she would, kill him. If that was true then Kane's hunt had only begun, for she had not locked herself in the garage with Chivington, hit him and herself over the head with that wrench and then remained there to die.

The whole thing was impossible. Someone else had committed the murder, possibly someone he had not even considered. He had often wondered just how a perfect crime would be committed. Now, he was faced with one that was as near perfect as it could be.

A man alone in his own house murdered by the unseen hand of a criminal as cunning as any he had ever encountered!

While he thus ruminated he had been standing before the window gazing down at the wide expanse of the lawns which surrounded the huge hotel. He saw, in the scarlet beams of the setting sun, minute creatures roaming over the golf course; he saw, in another direction, swimmers disporting in the hotel's big pool. Cars drove in and out of the driveways.

The far-away sound of music came to his ears. That reminded him that it was getting late and he had partaken only of a light luncheon at noon, and he was growing hungry. Perhaps if he forgot the whole affair for a while, if he flung himself into a night of recreation he might re-embark upon the investigation on the morrow with a fresh mind and a new enthusiasm.

And, so deciding, he undressed, took a cold shower and then attired himself freshly. He was about to leave his room when he remembered Ben MacQuarrie. An instant later he had the inspector on the telephone and was inviting him to dine with him.

His old friend met him in the lobby. MacQuarie gave him a playful poke in the ribs. "You old bachelor," he laughed, "I'm going to surprise you."

He led Kane over to the palm room and into the presence of two young women. After presentation he explained that he had tried earlier to get Kane on the 'phone to ask him to join the party. "These charming young women," he said, with assumed eloquence, "are from your Garden of Eden. They are actresses. I won't tell you how I met them."

One cast a coy glance at Jere Kane. "Does it make a great deal of difference how he met us?" she asked.

"Quite properly," MacQuarrie put in hastily. "I was introduced to them at one of the movie studios."

"Do you always have to spoil everything?" the coy one—It turned out later that she was Harmony Hale, a contract player—pouted.

Kane laughed and suggested that he was hungry. They went into the dining-room. After they had ordered, Harmony suggested that they dance. Kane led her on to the floor with misgivings; it had been a long time since he had danced. But after a few clumsy steps he found himself and moved easily across the glossy floor.

The girl lay in his arms, a smile of contentment on her face. He piloted her about the floor, essaying some of the fancy steps that he used to do in his younger days and found that he had not forgotten them. And soon all troubles of the Bailey affair had been ejected from his mind.

As they glided by their table MacQuarrie hurled a jest at him, but Kane only frowned and went on. Harmony said, "Don't let him kid you, boy friend. You'll get by in anybody's ballroom."

When the dance was ended they returned to the table to find the first course of their dinner awaiting them. Without further ado, they began their meal. Before long the thing happened that Kane had feared. The conversation turned to the murder of Richard Bailey.

He tried desperately to veer off on to another subject but the others would have none of it. The other girl—Maris Manners—said, "I think it's a dirty shame that Lillian should have been pulled in on that deal. She wouldn't hurt a fly."

Kane grunted something which they did not hear.

MacQuarrie asked, "How are you progressing with your plot against the police?"

"Oh" Harmony exclaimed innocently, "is he plotting against the police?"

MacQuarrie explained that Kane was working on the Bailey case, but he said nothing about the friction with John Lee. The girls evinced considerable interest; they plied Kane with questions; they wanted to know whom he thought was guilty; they wanted to know what he thought of Lillian Hull's arrest and confession; there were a thousand and one questions they asked, all of which he answered as evasively as possible.

The music started again. Harmony wanted to dance and Kane led her on to the floor. As they danced away she said fiercely:

"Richard Bailey was a cad. I should have killed him myself."

Kane looked at her in surprise. "You knew him?" he asked.

"Only too well," bitterly. "He tried to do the same thing to me he tried to do to Buddy."

He started and she cast a quick glance at him.

"You knew Buddy?" she asked.

He shook his head. "I'm not sure," he said slowly, "unless . . ."

"Do you think Buddy killed him?" she demanded with an intensity that belied her frivolous appearance.

"Who is Buddy?" he countered.

"Evelyn Deane," she told him. "Poor kid . . ."

"You know what happened to her, don't you?"

"Yes," in a hushed voice, "I saw it in the papers this afternoon."

Kane said nothing. He felt that she had something else to say, but would need no prompting to say it. In that he was right.

"I don't think she killed herself, either," she went on after a moment's hesitation. "Somebody tricked her. Chivington had something to do with it. He was a sly old devil, and just as bad as his master."

"What do you mean?" sharply. He had considerable difficulty in suppressing his elation at this turn of events.

But she fell silent. Try as he might he could not draw her out. Harmony Hale knew something she was holding back. But what was it? Was she trying to protect someone, or was she merely trying to hide a bitter period of her past life?

The music stopped. Reluctantly, he led her back to their table. He wished he could have a few minutes more with her; she might, he felt, set him upon the trail again. He was confident that she had some valuable information to give him. What had she meant in her reference to Chivington? Did she mean that Chivington had aided his master in the moral laxities which were rampant at that house up on the hill?

Try as he might he could not steer the conversation back to the murder again. Whereas before that dance he had been loth to discuss it, now he was eager to. But MacQuarrie had a lot of questions to ask about the motion picture business and Harmony all too willingly sought to satiate his appetite for further knowledge of that industry.

At last, the girls decided they had had enough and wanted to go home.

"Just one more dance," Kane pleaded with Harmony.

But she refused. She had to be at the studio early tomorrow for a long day's work. The picture in which she was working was behind schedule and the business supervisor was riding the director.

As they strolled out Harmony drew herself close to Kane and whispered:

"I want you to take me home. I have something to tell you."

DISMISSED CHARGE OF FALSE PRETENCES

A charge against Rudolf Le Duke of obtaining a room and rooming accommodation in the apartments kept by Mrs. Emma Edwards was dismissed in the Police Court yesterday morning by Magistrate Jay. The opinion was expressed by the magistrate that the case was not one that fell under the section of the code under which the charge was laid.

The accused had taken a room which was occupied by himself and his wife. For a time the landlady paid the accused paid in advance. Later the payments fell off and he paid in small sums and failed to keep his promises to get the money. The sum due totaled $70. The landlady had then insisted upon a payment, and when the accused failed to have the money at the appointed time, she placed a padlock on the door. The accused was defended by Gordon Cameron. In the absense of Claude L. Harrison, the city prosecutor, R. C. Lowe conducted the prosecution.

New Flying Ship Constructed for Royal Air Force

Multi-Engined Craft Leaving Plymouth This Month for Extended Service Trials in Middle East—Machine Is Fast

Years of experience in the operation of military flying boats over the waterways of four continents, coupled with recent important aerodynamical and metallurgical developments, have culminated in the design and construction of new British flying ships which set new standards of performance in the air and on the water.

Early next month a multi-engined craft which is expected to prove itself the fastest military flying boat yet constructed will leave Mount Batten, the Royal Air Force marine station, near Plymouth, for extended service trials which may take it as far east as Aden, the British port which guards the southern entrance to the Red Sea.

The itinerary provides evidence of the notable abilities of the airplane. Starting from Mount Batten in the morning, the new boat is planned to fly nonstop to the Etang de Berre, near Marseilles, a distance of nearly 800 miles. From Plymouth the airplane will be steered along the west coast of France as far as the mouth of the Gironde, whence it will fly by way of the river valleys across the South of Farnce to its destination at Berre. From Berre a second nonstop journey, of approximately the same length, will take the machine to Malta, where it will be based for service trials over the Mediterranean, which are expected to last about three months.

HEAT TESTS

Later, the flying boat will probably go to Port Sudan, on the western shore of the Red Sea, for thorough testing in the great heat of that region.

Styled provisionally the Vickers-Supermarine Southampton IV, the new boat owes much of its design to the famous twin-engined Southampton craft which have been standard equipment of Royal Air Force flying boat squadrons for the past seven years and have accomplished some of the finest formation cruises in the history of aviation. But the differences are marked, those immediately perceptible being the location of the two Rolls-Royce Kestrel engines in streamlined nacelles slung below the upper wings and the remarkable "cleanness" of the external structure. Nothing is there to give avoidable resistance to movement through the air. The biplane wings are supported by a single pair of struts on either side of the hull instead of by two pairs, and every detail of wings, tail unit, power-plant installation and hull is beautifully streamlined. An enclosed cockpit is provided for the pilots, a new feature in British military boats.

PLAN WOULD PUT NUMBER AT WORK

British Shipowners' Scrapping and Building Proposal Would Give Employment to 270,000 Men

Employment for 270,000 men is claimed possible in the British ship-scrapping and shipbuilding programme recently placed before Parliament by representatives of British shipowners.

It is proposed that 1,000,000 tons of vessels be built on the basis of a three-year programme, while at the same time 2,000,000 tons should be scrapped. It is estimated that the cost of building 2,000,000 gross tons would be £45,000,000.

Should the Government back the shipowners' bills for one-third, taking a mortgage on the vessels, the extent of the Government's liability would be £22,500,000, it is said. Should the Government guarantee owners twenty-five schillings per ton for their vessels as scrap, this liability would amount to £7,500,000, but the scrap material would be gradually sold, and the Government possibly lose nothing, according to proponents of the programme.

It is contended that this programme would provide employment for 270,000 men in shipbuilding and auxiliary industries, that £54,000,000 would be saved on unemployment pay in the three years, and that if all the shipowners failed in their obligations, it would cost the Government only £22,500,000.

MULTI-ENGINED CRAFT SUCCESS

Flying Boat Proved of Great Value in Quelling Insurrection

Among military strategists there is a growing conviction that the multi-engined flying boat offers a means of coastal defence and patrol, which, in many circumstances, is even more efficient than is obtainable with surface cruisers. The speed and range of the big flying boat, the ease with which a single craft can sweep in a few hours an immense area, and the seaworthiness of the modern British airplanes of this kind are the bases for this belief. And there is much to support the theory in the record of the activities of Royal Air Force boats in many parts of the world.

A single example which has not received sufficient attention may be quoted here. Last year the British authorities guaranteed support to the Sultan of Muscat, a state bordering on the Gulf of Oman, at the southeastern corner of the Arabian peninsula, in the suppression of unruly tribesmen in the region of Sur. A combined force of naval sloops and flying boats arrived simultaneously in the disaffected area. The naval vessels threatened the shore position held by the insurgents and the flying boats made a demonstration flight over the inland fortress of Bani bu Ali, which up to that time had been considered inaccessible. The mere demonstration was sufficient to bring about the submission of the ringleaders of the threatened rising.

Points to remark about this incident are the instant effect of air action, its humanity, and that the naval forces, though able to menace the shore positions, were quite unable to bring pressure to bear on the real stronghold inland short of landing a party which would have been obliged to face a difficult and perilous march through hostile country.

Notes on Aviation

William Lawson, of Vancouver, started the day's flying rather early last Saturday morning. Friday, the scheduled day for the week-end run to Bridge River, turned out rather unsatisfactory for flying the mountain route, so it was decided to hold up the scheduled run until the following morning. Mechanics and service men turned out bright and early to prepare the Boeing flying boat for the trip in to Bridge River, where David Sloan, manager of the Pioneer Mine, and three other passengers, were booked for the return trip to Vancouver. Mr. Sloan was delighted with the flight and stated that this division of Wells Air Transport operations should be extremely popular with tourists this Summer, the scenic feast of mountains on the route being well worth advertising.

Maurice MacGregor, a Victoria boy, has won appointment as Wells Air Transport reserve pilot, having checked out very satisfactorily on the Boeing boat. He is the son of Fred M. MacGregor, and received his original instruction in Victoria under Hal Wilson. Since then he has had quite a little experience on a variety of aircraft, completed the R.C.A.F. advanced flying course. He made the flight with William Lawson on the Bridge River division Tuesday, when four passengers and news - reel camera equipment was taken in to Seton Lake. Camera men from Associated Screen News, Montreal, are spending several days in the Bridge River area making a news-reel story of this important gold mining district.

Private Aircraft Club of British Columbia are making plans for an aerial picnic, when members of the Vancouver group and their friends will fly to a suitable picnic field with lunch baskets, returning late in the afternoon. Four or five planes are expected to be kept busy transporting the enthusiasts who are taking part in this novel outing.

Aviation Week, May 22 to 28, is claiming the attention of everyone interested in flying in Vancouver. One of the big events of the week will be the air show managed by the Junior Service League, to be held at the Sea Island Airport on May 24.

Canadian Airways, Limited, are to be congratulated on their recent announcement of the purchase of a DeHaviland Dragon, a new twin-engined aircraft designed in England. It is to be hoped that this is the forerunner of an increasing use of aircraft manufactured within the British Empire by Canadian operating companies.

R. Carter Guest, inspector of civil aviation, with headquarters in Vancouver, has taken keen interest in the efforts of young airplane designers. Model airplane building contests, organized by the Hyak Model Airplane Company, of Victoria, in both Victoria and Vancouver, have called upon the knowledge of Mr. Guest, who has directed the judging of all models entered. Four district competitions in Vancouver, and a city-wide competition in Victoria, run in conjunction with the Home Products Fair, have made no small amount of work for him. Nevertheless, he handled his voluntary duties with a willing spirit and to the entire satisfaction of everyone. His interest in these contests is no doubt because he believes that these clever boys, who build exceptionally fine models, are the aircraft engineers and designers of tomorrow.

Frank Gilbert, owner of one of the Aeroncas at the Sea Island Airport, Vancouver, supplies the smile of the week, though it is rather an expensive smile for Gilbert. En route to Harrison, he left the Aeronca in the field at Chilliwack and returned to find the contented cows of the Fraser Valley munching the fabric of his fuselage. He had to borrow a sheet to make first aid repairs and return to Vancouver.

Grace Line Ship Santa Lucia Due Early Tomorrow

From New York, via the West Indies, Central America, Canal Zone, Mexico and California, the Grace Line Ss. Santa Lucia is due alongside Rithet Piers at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Santa Lucia has a good passenger list, and a number of prominent people are aboard. The Grace liner will be here until 11 o'clock, when she is scheduled to proceed to Seattle. Freight aboard the liner for Northwest ports, includes some 900 cases of fruits and vegetables, which will be transferred here to the Ss. Empress of Russia, sailing outbound to the Orient in the early evening.

Besides the arrival of the Santa Lucia here tomorrow, there will be three ships outbound during the day. At 4 o'clock the Ss. Empress of Russia is due on her way to the Philippine Islands via Japan and China, and after she gets away from the docks, the Ss. President Jefferson, American Mail liner, will tie up and take on passengers and freight for the same destination. In the late evening, the Emma Alexander will be here on her way to San Francisco and Wilmington.

MAKE RATES ATTRACTIVE

All Railroads Offering Cheap Transportation to Chicago World's Fair

While the grounds enclosing the World's Century of Progress Exhibition at Chicago have been open to the public for some time, it will be June before the great project is completed and the entrance gates officially opened. Construction work is still going on, and while the articles are being assembled and arranged for display, it will be the end of the month before everything is in its place.

The World's Century of Progress is a most ambitious undertaking, and will display the achievements of mankind during the past one hundred years, the most wonderful period so far in the story of the world. In it science, invention and the arts flourished as never before, and Chicago is giving everyone the opportunity of studying the pageant of progress by placing on exhibition a spectacle covering the different phases of what has been called the "age of invention."

In this period the telegraph, telephone, electric light, wireless, radio and many other things have been invented and brought to various stages of perfection. From the crude and puffing methods of transportation our grandfathers were content with and considered wonderful, the world has come to know the luxury of modern-designed trains and ships, while motor cars and flying machines forecast wider application of speed and transport as they are improved.

HAS WIDE APPEAL

Buildings typifying different styles of architecture will house the various exhibits, while whole villages depicting life in countries wide apart have been erected and will be occupied by nationals of the country sponsoring the exhibits. Apart from the educational features displayed, the lighter side will not be overlooked, and many amusements will be provided to appeal to fair patrons of all ages.

All the railroads of America are making special inducements for the public to travel and take advantage of the opportunity to see what has been accomplished in the past hundred years. That a visit to the exposition will be highly educative, there is no doubt, particularly to students of progress and the young. For return trips, the rates offered are very attractive. Representative roads and offices in Victoria will be glad to furnish full information, while if one prefers a personally-conducted tour, with all expenses included, Eric Marshall, of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railway will tell about the party he is organizing.

COAST LINER BROUGHT MANY PASSENGERS FOR POINTS IN NORTHWEST

From ports in California, the Pacific Steamship Lines Ss. Emma Alexander docked last evening at Rithet Piers shortly before 11 o'clock. The Emma Alexander was two hours late in leaving San Francisco, and gained an hour on the run up the coast, being due here at 10 o'clock, according to her regular schedule.

For Island and Mainland points, the coast ship had a total of fifty passengers, the travelers for the Mainland proceeding there at midnight. Cargo amounting to sixty odd tons was left here. The Emma continued to Seattle at midnight.

FAST REFRIGERATED CARGO MOTORSHIPS BUILDING ON ORDER

Shaw, Savill & Albion Company, Limited, have placed a contract with Harland & Wolff, Limited, Belfast, for two fast refrigerated cargo motor liners, each to be more than 500 feet long, with a dead-weight capacity of more than 12,000 tons and refrigerated space of about 500,000 cubic feet.

The vessels are intended for the London-New Zealand service via the Panama Canal. They will be driven by twin sets of Harland-B. and W. four-cycle, single acting, airless injection, pressure charged Diesels.

The company has a fleet of sixteen steamers and four motor ships. It was the pioneer in the New Zealand trade.

Princess Elizabeth To Take Excursion Across the Strait

The excursion season will start tomorrow when the C.P.R. Social and Athletic Club is sponsoring a trip across the Strait to Port Angeles. The Ss. Princess Elizabeth will take the crowd, which is expected to attend, out at 1:45 o'clock, leaving the Belleville Street dock of Canadian Pacific Steamships at that hour.

Excursionists will have the opportunity of spending several hours in Port Angeles, and will have time to visit the lake resorts nearby. Canadian money will be accepted at par by the merchants of Port Angeles. An orchestra will be on board the excursion ship for dancing and entertainment. The Elizabeth will leave Port Angeles on the return voyage at 7 o'clock in the evening.

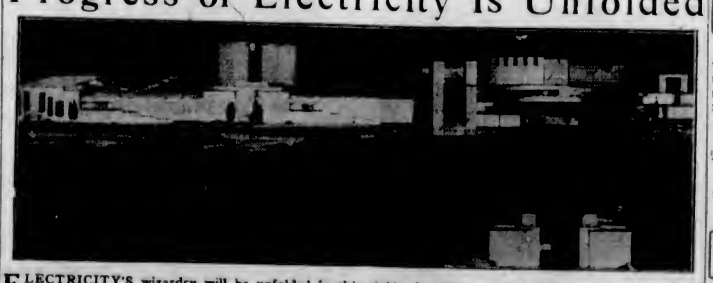
"I FOUND RELIEF SO I'LL TELL YOU"
Read How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped This Quebec Woman—Let It Help You

"After the birth of my last baby I suffered with many of those disorders peculiar to women. Pains all over my body, especially in the abdomen, weakness in my legs, loss of appetite, nervous and blue. One of my friends insisted that I ought to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took five bottles and felt as well as ever. I never miss a chance to encourage other women to give it a trial."—Mrs. Samuel Belanger, P. O. Box 17, Point Gatineau, Quebec.

Progress of Electricity Is Unfolded



ELECTRICITY'S wizardry will be unfolded in this sickle-shaped group of buildings at "A Century of Progress"—Chicago's international exposition. A semi-circular unit, shown on the right, will house exhibits portraying the generation, distribution and utilization of electricity. In the centre will be shown exhibits of telephone and telegraph communication. On the extreme left is the unit devoted to the Hall of Social Science.

MAY UNITE WITH CENTRAL GROUP

Saanich Ward Two Non-Political Association Appoints Investigation Committee

C. H. Underwood, E. C. Warren and Jack Hayward were appointed Wednesday night, a committee to attend the next meeting of the Saanich Central Ratepayers' Association, on behalf of Saanich Ward Two Non-Political Association, with instructions to report back their findings to enable members of the association to vote on whether they will join the central body.

A resolution will be forwarded to the Saanich council from the association requesting that sidewalks, started two to three years ago on Saanich and Darwin Roads, be completed as quickly as possible. Another resolution will be sent to the council asking that the street lights not be turned out this Summer. It was pointed out that there was danger of accidents occurring if the lights were turned out.

Councillor Dennis Hoare promised to support the association's stand on the light question. Questioned on the matter of water supplied those on relief, Councillor Hoare said that in future he would arrange the discount for any who would pay their two months' arrears, if necessary. A delegation was instructed to visit the water committee of the council and investigate the matter further.

ROTARY PIN IS GIVEN MEMBER

Local Club Bids Adieu to Major Watts at Yesterday's Luncheon at Empress Hotel

At the luncheon of the Rotary Club yesterday at the Empress Hotel, members of that organization presented Major Harry Watts with a Rotary button, on the occasion of his leaving the city to reside with his daughter in Calgary. The presentation was made by Percy Watson, on behalf of the club. In doing so he paid a high compliment to the character of Major Watts, and referred to the valued services which he had rendered the club and many other organizations in the city.

In reply, Major Watts said that while he had gone out into physical darkness, the luminous light of love had been made very manifest towards him since his affliction had come. On every hand there had been the greatest sympathy and kindness extended to him, so that he was compensated in measure thereby.

The honor of life membership in the Victoria Rotary Club had been bestowed upon him. He would, therefore, be proud to enter another club with this honor. In closing, Major Watts referred to the club as being not only fraternal but also an organization that was making for the peace of the world.

What Today Means

"TAURUS"

If May 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., and from 10:50 p.m. to 11:40 p.m. The danger periods are from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m., and from 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

You may possibly receive some very good news concerning a friend very dear to you. A good day for travel and to begin a long journey. Children will be inclined to sulk if they do not get their way. More than one pair of lovers will "come to an understanding" this day.

The child born on this May 5 will probably do outstandingly good work in school. He will not be the easiest person for his parents and teachers to handle, and due to his conceited manner and "uppish" attitude towards others of his own age he will not be a popular little one.

If May 5 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a very impractical person. You are not a dependable person. Easy going and desirous of maintaining peace at any price, you spend a great deal of your time running around trying to agree with everybody. As a result, no one is ever quite sure just where you stand on any question, and it is often the case that you cannot make up your own mind. Usually a most considerate person, there are times when in seeking to satisfy some almost childish whim of yours you totally disregard the desires as well as the rights of others. You take an almost childish delight in "going places and seeing things"; your sense of humor is quite immature.

Born on May 5, you will do your best work if you are not too much "pinned down" or "hemmed in" by others. A goodly amount of independence should be yours, but you will not succeed if you are absolutely and unreservedly your own boss. You have no idea of money, and you are not one to be entrusted with the funds of others; it is not that you are dishonest, but that you are not sufficiently alert to keep a good eye on it. Married to a mate who is wise enough to see your possibilities, and to handle you and direct your efforts along right channels, you may make quite a success of yourself. You will make a good wife or husband, as the case may be, and you will be devoted to your family.

The Boss—So you think we ought to let Neversweat go on account of his inefficiency? Does he loaf on the job?

The Efficiency Expert — I don't object to that so much as to the fact that he doesn't conserve his energy. This morning he made fourteen unnecessary motions while pretending to be busy.

DOMINION HOOP TITLE WON BY VICTORIA

PEDEN AND JULES AUDY DROP BACK

Victoria Boy and Montreal Mate Third—Thomas-Rush Sixth

TORONTO, May 5 (CP). — Reggie Fielding, Toronto sprint star, and Harry Horan, of Newark, N.J., burst into a first-place tie with the Italian-Belgian team of Tom Saetta and Freddie Ottevaire late last night in Toronto's six-day bicycle race. The teams were tied in mileage at 1,694 miles, four laps, but the Fielding-Horan combination led in sprint points, 390 to 185.

Torchy Peden and Jules Audy, favored Canadian team, were alone in third place.

At midnight, Freddie Zach and Savere van Slambrouck were eliminated after a brilliant battle at the bottom of the standing with Henri LePage and Pete van Kempen. At midnight the teams were tied for last place, but Lepage and Kempen stayed in the grind because they had more sprint points.

The standing at 1 a.m.:

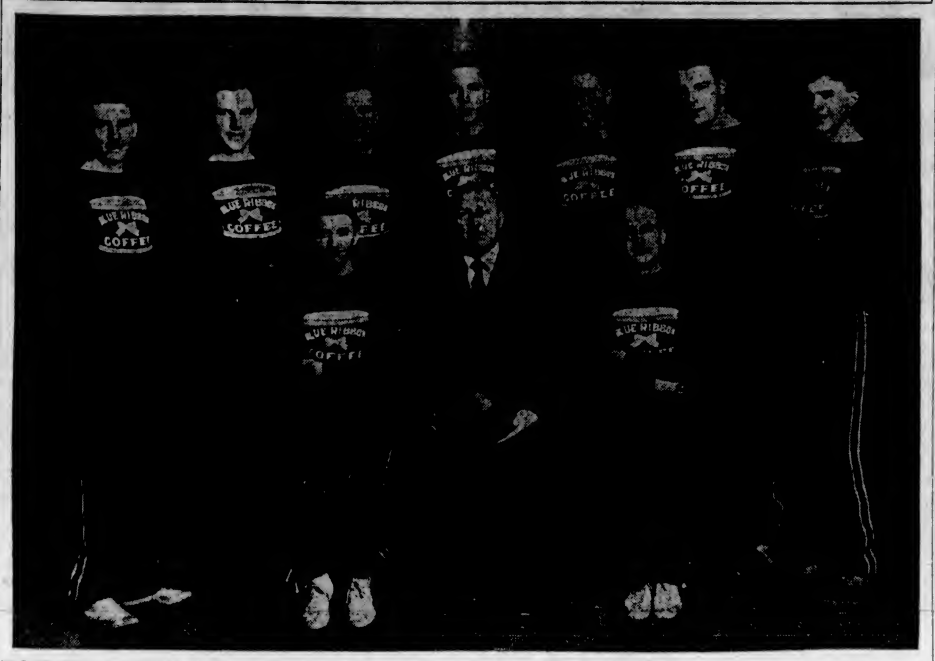
Two U.S. Flyers Killed in Crash

ALPINE, Texas, May 4 (AP).—Two army flyers burned to death in the wreckage of their attack plane, late today, when it crashed against a mountainside in the Ord Range, twelve miles east of Alpine.

The plane was one of a flight of nineteen army ships en route to Marsh Field, Cal., for manoeuvres. It encountered motor trouble and was seen circling around toward the east just before it fell. A sandstorm was blowing at the time

Dominion Senior Basketball Champions



BLUE Ribbons basketball team, which brought the Dominion championship to Victoria for the first time, last night, when they defeated Windsor-Walkerville, Eastern champions, in the fourth and deciding game. Ribbons showed brilliant form after dropping the opener last Saturday, and took Monday's, Wednesday's and last night's games, to win the championship. It was a hard-fought series, and Windsor-Walkerville proved themselves worthy opponents. The team, back row, left to right: Joe Ross, guard; Tommy Little, guard; Lynn Patrick, forward; Art Chapman, centre; Muzz Patrick, forward; Chuck Chapman, guard and captain; Alf McKeown, guard. Front row: Johnny Craig, forward; Ernie Cook, manager and coach; Claude Sluggett, forward.

New York Giants Take Two Close Games From Cubs

Odd Runs Give New Yorkers Pair of Victories—Pirates Nose Out Dodgers—Cards Win—Johnston and Gomez Just Miss No-Hit Games

NATIONAL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP).—The Giants took two close decisions from the champion Chicago Cubs in a hard-fought double-header today, 2-1 and 5-4, and captured the series two games to one.

Fred Fitzsimmons pitched steady ball in the opener while New York came from behind in the fifth and sixth frames to score the deciding runs. Sam Leslie's triple and George Davis' single in the seventh won the game.

Four Cub errors played an important part in settling the second contest while Bud Parmelee hurled well in the pinches.

First Game:	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	1	8	2
New York	2	6	0

Batteries—Tinning, Richmond and Hartnett, Taylor; Fitzsimmons and Mancuso.

Second Game:	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	4	6	4
New York	5	8	2

Batteries—Bush, Nelson and Hartnett; Parmelee, Hubbell and Mancuso.

Bucs Win in Tenth

BROOKLYN, N.Y., May 4 (AP).—Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind after trailing seven innings of the way and won out in the tenth, 2-1, in a National League game with Brooklyn Dodgers today.

It was a pitchers' duel all the way between Lefty Watson Clark, Brooklyn mainstay, and Heinie Meine, Pirate right-hander.

	R.	H.	E.
Pittsburgh	2	8	0
Brooklyn	1	6	0

Batteries — Meine and Finney; Clark and Lopez, Sukeforth, Picinich.

Cards Take Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, May 4 (AP).—St. Louis Cardinals, in a big fifth inning, pushed five runs across the plate—their total for the day—to hand the Phillies a 5-2 defeat today.

Jim Mooney, Cardinal left-hander, hurled effectively through the whole nine innings, holding the Phils to six scattered hits.

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	5	11	2
Philadelphia	2	6	0

Batteries — Mooney and Wilson; Berly, Elliott, Liska and Davis.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

A Cat-Eyed Emperor—Emperor Tiberius is described as a nyctalops, who could see well in the dark. The ancients usually confused the terms of Nyctalopia (night blindness) with Hemeralopia (day blindness). Tiberius was in reality a hemeralops, one whose condition enables him to see in the dark, while the vision is impaired in daylight.

The Mystic Maze—The Trojeborg, or Trojan Maze, near the ancient town of Visby, Bottland, is situated between Gallowa Mountain and the sea, and is one of many similar mazes occurring throughout the Scandinavian countries, where they were formerly used in connection with religious dances incidental to sun worship.

The Visby Trojeborg, about sixty feet in diameter, is made of stones about a foot high. Local legend credits the construction to a princess imprisoned in the nearby Cave of the Robbers. The legend bears the earmarks of solar worship.

Silver Button Salmon Landed By New Yorkers

MR. and Mrs. Nichols, of New York, as members of the Victoria-Saanich Anglers' Association, last night claimed the association's first silver button of the season with a spring salmon catch weighing thirty-two and a half pounds. The fish was one of ten taken yesterday by the party at Brentwood.

Robert Stacey, guide of the district, reported to William J. Hailiday, secretary of the Victoria-Saanich Anglers' Association, that limit catches have been taken out daily for the past week at Brentwood.

Johnson in Form

BOSTON, May 4 (AP).—Si Johnson, Cincinnati right-hander, today held the Boston Braves to one hit as his slugging team-mates batted out a 4-0 victory. Only twenty-seven Tribesmen faced Johnson during the game, for Wally Berger, who registered the only Boston hit in the second inning, was thrown out going down to second.

Johnson, who got off to a slow start this season, did not have a single strikeout or yield a base on balls.

	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati	4	12	0
Boston	0	1	0

Batteries—Johnson and Hemsley; Mangum and Hogan.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

DETROIT, May 4 (AP).—Charley Gehringer blasted Vernon Gomez, southpaw ace of the New York Yankees, loose from a niche in baseball's hall of fame today when he clouted a home run at the start of the ninth inning to ruin a prospective no-hit game. The Yanks had little trouble winning the game, 5-2, even though Gomez weakened a bit when he saw his hopes for a record game knocked away.

New York	5	8	0
Detroit	2	2	0

Batteries — Gomez and Dickey; Bridges, Sorrell and Desautels, Hayworth.

Athletics Defeated

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP).—Chicago White Sox defeated Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1, today in the only game of their three-piece series the weather man allowed them to play.

Both Chicago runs came in the first inning and were unearned. Sam Jones kept the A's to five hits, two of which came together in the second inning for their only run.

	R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	1	5	2
Chicago	2	6	0

Batteries — Cain, Freitas and Cochrane; Jones and Grube.

Rally to Win

CLEVELAND, May 4 (AP).—The Indians spotted Washington Senators four runs in the first inning today, but staged an old-fashioned rally in the ninth to win, 6-5, and go into a tie with the White Sox for second place.

Blue Ribbons Capture Dominion Title After Sensational Play-Off

Mayor D. Leeming Praises Fine Win Of Blue Ribbons

MAYOR David Leeming, on learning the result of last night's basketball game, which brought the Canadian championship to Victoria for the first time, was loud in praise of the Blue Ribbons. His Worship extended his heartiest congratulations to the Blue Ribbons and highly commended the Windsor-Walkerville quintette for their great showing and sportsmanship. Mayor Leeming said:

"Only a body of clean living young men could possibly go through such a grueling series as we have seen in Victoria. I wish to extend my sincere congratulations to the Victoria Blue Ribbons and to wish them continued success. To Windsor - Walkerville I wish to extend them congratulations on their fine showing and great sportsmanship. Victoria is proud of its championship team."

rally in the dying minutes with hopes of sending the series to a fifth game, but the Ribbons repulsed their attacks and fought back courageously. Again, Chuck Chapman turned in a brilliant defensive game and broke the visitors' hearts time and again with his brainy work. Muzz Patrick and Art Chapman headed the scoring brigade with sixteen and eleven points, respectively.

Art Chapman took care of the opening tip-off. Little fouled Dawson, but he missed the shot. Goldman circled down the court and missed a long attempt. Aitcheson got the rebound and Art Chapman fouled him under the local basket. He missed the first shot and scored the second. Little had his second foul called on him when he hacked J. Stewart. Stewart missed. Muzz Patrick threw in the Ribbons' first field goal seconds later, the ball going clean through from the side. From the tip-off, Chuck Chapman missed with a long shot, but Muzz Patrick went in at lightning speed, picked up the rebound, and scored.

The Ribbons were setting a terrific pace and sweeping down on the Windsor defence with continuous offensives. Dawson fouled Muzz Patrick under the Windsor basket and he scored. Lynn Patrick gained possession from centre and tossed to Art Chapman, who went in fast to toss in a beauty. Butcher went into the game for J. Stewart as Windsor called time out with the score at 7-1 against them.

Art Chapman was caught tripping Goldman but the Windsor flash missed from the foul line. As a result of the play, Lynn Patrick and Bill Butcher nearly came to blows. The two were seperated and warned by Referee Yeo. It was the third foul on Art Chapman after he had hacked Goldman. Goldman made no mistake this time and converted.

Goldman was called for fouling Chuck Chapman. Chuck missed and Windsor went away on a fast attack. The Easterners were trying hard to work their famous "screening" play with Goldman in the pivot position, but the Ribbons were checking closely and the play proved fruitless.

MAKES FINE OPENING

Meretsky was rushed in the game for J. Stewart, with the Ribbons leading, 18-7. Joe Ross intercepted a pass and made a fine opening for Muzz Patrick, who scored right under the basket. A Stewart substituted for Don King. Aitcheson was caught holding Art Chapman, but the latter missed completely. Windsor were trying long shots to slice the Ribbons' lead, but they were all falling short. Meretsky tried to sneak through and was fouled by Chuck Chapman. He converted the first and followed with another.

Referee Macedo gave Windsor a basket for interference, when Chuck Chapman leaped up and touched the twine as Meretsky's shot was going towards the hoop. Right after Dawson charged Muzz Patrick heavily and the free shot was converted as the half-time gun sounded, with the Ribbons out in front, 21-11.

Dawson went in the game for A. Stewart, but the latter switched to centre position in place of Goldman. Dawson had his third personal called. He blocked Muzz Patrick, but the latter missed. Dawson took the centre and tossed in a beautiful long shot from mid-court. Goldman came on for Dawson. Lynn Patrick sneaked through from the tip-off and scored, and then Joe Ross took Art Chapman's long cross-court pass and went in to register as he was unguarded. Meretsky made it 26-15 and Aitcheson added another with a long shot from the side.

BRILLIANT GOAL

Little took Ross's place after four minutes had gone. Art Chapman made a fine opening for Lynn Patrick under the hoop and he scored. He was fouled by Meretsky, but missed. Aitcheson got through, but Chuck Chapman rushed over and knocked the ball out of bounds. Victoria broke fast and Muzz Patrick sunk a beauty as he fell into the bleachers over the first row of fans right under the basket. Lynn Patrick fouled Butcher heavily and the Windsor coach called Referee Yeo over, stating it was a disqualifying foul, and Patrick should be put out of the game. Yeo paid no attention and the game continued. Butcher missed the shot.

Windsor called time out with ten minutes remaining, and the Ribbons' leading, 32-21. King switched to centre when the game resumed, and then Chuck Chapman put in a free throw awarded against Goldman.

Aitcheson put through a long one and then followed with a beautiful shot from the side. The Ribbons called time out with six and a half minutes remaining.

WIDENS LEAD

Muzz Patrick put the game and title in the bag when he broke away and scored just three seconds before the gun.

E. L. Yeo, Vancouver; Tommy Macedo, Victoria, refereed. Bob Whyte was official scorer and Albert Martin looked after the time.

CAGE SQUADS ENTERTAINED

Windsor and Ribbons Given Luncheon at Premier Tolmie's Home at Cloverdale

Premier S. F. Tolmie entertained the visiting Windsor-Walkerville Alumni basketball squad, along with members of the Blue Ribbons team, at a luncheon at his home, "Cloverdale," yesterday at noon. The two quintettes are battling it out for the men's senior Canadian championship at the Willows gymnasium. His Worship Mayor David Leeming, Aldermen James Adam and Alex Peden, Lester Patrick, J. A. Barnwell, J. C. Dowds, J. V. Johnson and Dr. K. Darbyshire were present. Mr. and Mrs. J. St. Clair Harvey and Fraser and Wendy Tolmie assisted the Premier in entertaining their guests.

At the conclusion of the luncheon, Gordie Fuller, manager of the Easterners, expressed thanks at the hospitality and appreciation shown them by the head of the Provincial Government and assured the Premier that their trip to the historic Tolmie residence would long be remembered. Alderman James Adam spoke briefly on behalf of Victoria's sportsmen. Premier Tolmie stated it was a pleasure to be hosts to such fine athletes representing the West and East in the Dominion final.

Windsor players present were Irving Meretsky, William Butcher, James Stewart, Gordon Aitcheson, Glen Sherman, Gordon Fuller, Donald King, Edward Dawson, Archie Stewart, George Taylor and Julius Goldman. Ernie Cook, manager-coach of the Ribbons; Chuck Chapman, Art Chapman, Claude Sluggett, Muzz and Lynn Patrick were the local players at the table.

FIVE JUNIOR SQUADS ENTER

Junior Softballers Organize for Season—Entries to Close on Tuesday Evening

Five teams have already entered the Victoria and District Junior Softball League and at least three more are expected to gain franchises before the schedule opens. At a meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday night, Oak Bay Athletic, Goodwin's Grocery, Alert Service, Haultain Falcons and the Workers' Sports Association entered clubs.

The 1932 executive voluntary retired and a new list of officers was installed. H. B. Wiffen was chosen as president, while T. Taylor was made vice-president. L. Clarke was the secretary-treasurer's choice by the delegates present. At the net meeting, the executive will draw up a schedule and entries will close Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. Anyone wishing to officiate as umpire during the season is asked to attend the meeting or send in their names to the secretary.

Congratulations

IN common with the thousands of basketball followers throughout Western Canada, The Colonist wishes to extend its heartiest congratulations to the Blue Ribbons in bringing the first Canadian senior basketball championship to Victoria. The team showed real merit, great sportsmanship and a fighting spirit in its brilliant victory, and the win will, no doubt, be a huge boost to the game in Victoria and British Columbia.

To Windsor-Walkerville this newspaper also wishes to extend its congratulations on the way the team conducted itself both on and off the floor, and, as Mayor David Leeming stated, "We are proud to be able to have such a fine bunch of boys with us."

The management of the Blue Ribbons team is to be congratulated for its endeavors in bringing the championship to Victoria. This company went to a great deal of expense in forming the team and was confronted by difficulties, which few realize, before bringing the Raymond Jacks, of Alberta, and Windsor-Walkerville here for the semi-final round and the championship proper. The success of the company's venture means a great deal to Victoria, not from the selfish point of winning the championship, but from the great advertising which the Capital City of British Columbia will receive.

Victoria is rapidly gaining the sportlight by her brilliant performances in athletics. "Torchy" Peden has given this city much prominence by his great work in six-day bike racing, while the prowess of the local English Rugby teams has attracted considerable attention throughout Canada.

Aston Villa Buys Two Players From Blackburn Rovers

Villans Put Over Smart Deal in Purchasing Dix and Cunliffe for Big Sum—Battles to Escape Relegation Expected to Be Keenly Fought

LONDON, May 4 (CP). — Desperate, last-minute battles to escape relegation added interest to tail-end games in English soccer this Saturday as the nine-month schedule is brought practically to a close.

Arsenal already have won the championship and after the week-end clashes only a few games postponed earlier in the season will remain to be cleared up.

Aston Villa, likely runners - up surprised the soccer world with a brilliant trading coup today, securing the transfer of Ronald Dix sought by several teams, and his team-mate, Cunliffe, from Blackburn Rovers. The transfer fee was not revealed but Rovers had to pay Bristol Rovers £6,000 (about $26,880) for Dix alone. Against Derby County Saturday Aston will try out their new left wings, dropping the veteran Billy Walker and Chester.

MANY IN DANGER

Wolverhampton Wolves, Leicester, Blackpool and Bolton all are in danger of relegation from the First Division to make way for the Second Division winners and runners-up—probably Stoke City and Tottenham Hotspurs. With the teams so closely packed at the bottom of the heap it is entirely likely the relegation issue will be decided on the goal averages.

All four meet strong opponents, Blackpool go to Newcastle to play United, Wolves take on Everton, Bolton plays Leeds United and Leicester battles West Bromwich Albion. Making a last-minute effort to inject life into their attack, Blackpool are dropping their international centre-forward, Hampson, replacing him with Wilkinson.

Only two points apart, Stoke City and 'Spurs both take on strong opponents Saturday, Stoke playing Bradford City and 'Spurs meeting Notts County. A win for Tottenham and a loss for Stoke would leave them tied in points for the Second Division championship and leave the issue to be decided on the goal averages. Chesterfield and Charlton Athletic are certain to be dropped from the division.

LOCAL BOWLERS LEAD IN DOUBLES AND SINGLES

HIGH THREE GAMES OF 661 IS ROLLED BY VICTORIA MAN

Les Fox Bowls Three Fine Games—Howell and McKenzie Lead in Doubles—Wilson, of Jokers, Has 255 in Single Game—Fox Leads All Events With 1,856

Scattering the pins for a total of 661 in the open singles event, Les Fox, Times bowler, went out into the lead at the Northwestern Bowling Congress yesterday. Fox bowled 225, 213 and 223 for his score, and was reeling off strikes with monotonous regularity. Coupled with his totals of 603 in the five-man team event and 592 in the doubles, the local man headed the Congress in the chase for the prized diamond medal for the winners in all events. His total is 1,856.

Wilson, of the Jokers, carried off the palm for high single game of the day and also of the Congress to date. In the first game of the doubles he started with two spares, then got a split, but came back with nine strikes for a total of 255. He fell off in his other two games, however, but teamed with his partner to compile 1,148.

A Victoria pair also hold the lead in the doubles, Howell and Mackenzie toppling the maples for 1,220. The Commercial singles are at present topped by Atkins, Vancouver, with 640, while Poletti and Iaci, also of Vancouver, still hold their lead in the doubles with 1,154.

PORTLAND TEAM LEADS

A large crowd packed the Olympic Alleys from the commencement of the night session, when some of the heavy guns of the tournament got into action. The mark of 2,798, set by Chapman's Recreations, of Vancouver, soon went by the board when three teams, bowling the first evening session at 6:15 o'clock, topped the 2,800 mark. Aircraft, of Portland, went into the lead at the end of this session with 946, 1,067, 919—2,932. Black Ball, of Seattle, were next with 2,839, and Silver Loaf Bakery, No. 1, of Spokane, stood third with 2,833. J. Gillam, of the Aircraft squad, was high man with 659 for his three-game total. His high single game was 247. He thus has a good start for the All Events crown.

In the second batch of squads, that commenced at 8:15, Ebonites, of San Francisco, bowled into second place with a total of 2,847. Two other teams passed the 2,800 mark, Pacific Match Co., of Tacoma, scoring 2,836, and Rippe's Cafe, of Seattle, with 2,801. Vitalich, of Tacoma, had high single game with 223, and Merrick, of Vancouver, high three-game total with 633.

Kentucky Derby Jockey Fatally Injured in Fall

BALTIMORE, Md., May 4 (AP).—Bernard "Buddy" Hanford, twenty-one, of Omaha, Neb., slated to ride the Audley Farm's Trace Call in the Kentucky Derby on Saturday, was fatally injured today when he fell beneath the flying hoofs of a large field of thoroughbreds in the sixth race at Pimlico.

Rated as one of America's leading riders, Hanford had his greatest year in 1932, when he booted 146 of his mounts home in front of their fields.

Security Prices Move Higher at New York Mart

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP).—Stocks entered the third week of their inflation market today with the appetite for equities still unstated and prices rolled higher after a little early unsettlement. Many commodities were again hesitant, but secondary categories in the bond list, as well as a goodly number of high grade loans, appreciated. Net gains for shares ranged from 1 to more than 3 points.

Rail securities struck out for higher prices and attained considerable momentum and volume on the upswing. Oils were perked up after their recent period of depression, while steel shares were prominent. Metals, which did nobly Wednesday, rested on those laurels. Motors and chemicals rallied, but some utilities did little more than mark time. The Standard Statistics-Associated Press industrial average made a new 1933 high, while the 90 stocks composite did likewise.

President Roosevelt's message and introduction into Congress of the legislation necessary to make his recommendations law, found the carriers already on their upward move. The chief executive's proposals had been well publicized in advance, but the market evidently felt they had not been fully discounted.

No doubt enthusiasm was bolstered by evidence of better traffic and a thought that actual movement of commodities into actual consumption would give the roads' business a substantial boost. Many carriers reached new 1933 highs, gains ranging from 1 to 2 points or better for most of hte actives.

Rubber issues were strong. Pillsbury Flour, achieving distinction by virtue of an increase in the quarterly dividend to 25 cents from 15, made a new high for the year. Turnover maintained a very profitable volume for commission houses, totaling 4,596,517 shares.

Railway loans led the bond market on another upward spurt today as the Administration's new carrier relief bill, accompanied by a special explanatory message from President Roosevelt, reached Congress.

Secondary issues, as in recent sessions, were the most buoyant, but United States Government securities maintained their forward trend and various of the so-called "gilt-edge" corporation maturities displayed a steady to firm front.

In addition to the administrative spur, the rails reflected reports of advancing steel operations, increased electric power output and a highly improved tone in business generally.

REORGANIZATION PLAN APPROVED

Common Stockholders of Beauharnois Back "Montreal Power" Scheme of Financing

MONTREAL, May 4 (CP).—Common stockholders of the Beauharnois Power Corporation today voted, by a huge majority, to accept the "Montreal Power" plan for reorganizing the financial structure of the company, endorsed by bondholders.

In contrast with the turbulent gathering of the debenture holders yesterday, today's session of the common shareholders was merely formal. Only about thirty persons were present.

The motion to accept the "Montreal Power" scheme met with little opposition, being carried by 1,009,308 votes to 126.

The "Montreal Power" plan calls for the underwriting by Montreal Light, Heat & Power Consolidated of Beauharnois first mortgage bonds to the extent of $13,500,000 to carry on construction work in connection with the great hydro-electric plant on the St. Lawrence near Montreal.

Reorganization of the Beauharnois company became necessary when it defaulted on its bond last year. The bondholders in June, 1932, appointed a protective committee which drew up the plan of financial rehabilitation which has been accepted by both the bondholders and common stockholders and requires only ratification by the Dominion Government to go into effect.

RISE CONTINUES AT VANCOUVER

Oils Feature Trading But Golds and Base Metals Gain Substantially

VANCOUVER, May 4 (CP).—Price levels of popular issues moved upward again in another day of feverish activity on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today. Led by the gold group, the active list surged to higher levels with gains ranging from a single point to five or more points. Oils shared the spotlight, with the golds and base metals chalking up substantial gains, in most cases a point below the day's tops.

Bridge River was the feature trader of the day. Opening at 35, the issue climbed to 37 for a net gain of 14. Reno jumped 7 to 1.25, three below its high for the movement, and Premier was up 3 at 73. Pioneer, the only issue of the day to show easiness, dipped 40 to 9.50 in light trading. Cariboo Gold was up 5 to 2.15, and Bridge River Exploration up 3 to 51. Bralorne lost an early 25-point gain to close unchanged at 5.95.

In the base metals, Georgia River advanced 2 1-4 to 5 1-2, and Pend Orelle gained 7 to 97.

Mayland climbed 5 to 52 in the oils section, with Home up 4 to 58, and C. & E. Corporation at 56 was up 2, and Merland 1 at 19. Royalite at 11.25 gained 2.25.

Coast Breweries continued to show a firm tendency, advancing 40 to 10.40.

Industrial Stocks Lead Price Advance At Eastern Markets

MONTREAL, May 4 (CP).—In the face of some uncertainty in Wall Street, prices on the Montreal Stock Exchange soared higher along a broad front today.

The advance extended to all sections of the list with sixteen issues establishing new highs for the year. In contrast to the general upturn was the 101 point drop in Maple Leaf Milling preferred on its first sale in nearly five years, a forceful indication of the depreciation in values since the boom days.

The widest list of the year was traded in, sixty-seven issues coming out with thirty-six moving upward and four recording losses.

Brazilian Traction, with a turnover of nearly 11,000 shares, was the active leader and closed unchanged at 11 5-8. Canadian Industrial Alcohol issues came in for some heavy trading with the "A" stock having sales of roughly 10,000 shares. Both touched new tops, the "A" at 3 5-8, but closing at 2 3-8 with a gain of 7-8, and the "B" at 2 where it finished up 1-2.

Following the acceptance of its plan for the refinancing of Beauharnois Power by the Beauharnois bondholders' protective committee last night, Montreal Power recorded a new top at 33 7-8 and slid back to 33, a point gain.

Steel stocks were in the limelight, all touching new maximums.

Base metals were weak with the public deserting them. International Nickel lost 25 cents at 16.00, while Consolidated Smelters held firm at 97.

New highs were established by Alberta Grain, up 2 at 9; Massey-Harris, Gypsum and Western Grocers, up 2 1-4 at 12.

Canadian Pacific Railway gained 1-4 at 15 3-4 as did Shawinigan Power at 12 7-8. Maple Leaf Milling preferred, whose previous board-lot sales was made in November, 1928, dipped 101 points to a new low at 9.

Sales, 59,149 shares; bonds, $34,500.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, May 4 (CP).—Heavy buying of industrial stocks carried the price structure to new high ground on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The turnover was 71,000 shares, the second best day since the inflation market started in the third week in April, and about two dozen stocks registered new high gains for the year.

Nickel and Brazilian ran a race for volume, each turning over more than 12,000 shares. Activity in the liquor stocks was the feature in the early part of today's session. Five of the group made new highs, and all closed not far from the tops of the day. The general tone at the close was strong, fifty-seven stocks finishing with gains against eleven with recessions and sixteen unchanged.

Two base metals, Nickel and Smelters alone among the interlisted stocks, closed on the down side, Nickel dropping 20 cents, and Smelters 1-4. Brazilian was 1-4 up at 11 1-2, Ford of Canada, 5-8 higher at 8 3-8, and C.P.R., 1-4 higher at 15 3-4.

Practically the whole range of food shares moved ahead under good buying, gains appearing for B.C. Packers, Canada Bread common and all three canners issues. Agricultural implement shares moved with the trend, and most of the steels and heavy industrials got into new high territory.

Stocks, closely tied to commodities, were strong. Bank stocks were irregular. Five oils out of the seven appearing in the trading moved ahead.

TORONTO MINING MARKET

TORONTO, May 4 (CP).—Gold stocks had their biggest trade in today's session on the standard exchange since the closing phase of the Fall and Winter boom, which had its climax in the first week of February. Volume ran up to 17,000 shares for Dome, 32,000 for Pioneer, 31,000 for Wright-Hargreaves, 12,000 for Teck-Hughes, and 5,000 for Lakeshore.

Dome had a turnover of 38,000 shares on the New York market. Practically the whole market closed higher.

The rising premium on gold, now ruling about $7 per ounce for Canadian output, caused the rush to accumulate gold shares, while other sections of the board remained comparatively quiet, though all base metals were firm. Gains for the day among the leaders were 1.50 to $38 for Lakeshore, 1.35 to 21.35 for Dome, 1.10 to 9.25 for Hollinger, 25 to 28.75 for McIntyre, 50 to 9.75 for Pioneer, 16 to 4.60 for Teck-Hughes, and 20 to 5.10 for Wright-Hargreaves. Bralorne had a gain of 10 cents to 6.10.

Base metal leaders closed higher, except International Nickel, which fell back 20 to 16.05. Noranda, on the basis of its gold output, was in favor and it advanced 45 cents to 28.45. Hudson Bay, Coast Copper, Pend Orelle, Sherritt Gordon and Sudbury Basin were all up 4 to 15 cents each. Falconbridge was up 5, and the penny copper stocks, Amulet and Dominion Explorers, were up fractions.

Granada featured the medium-priced gold group with a rise of 14 cents to 1.58. Silver stocks remained practically stationary with volume fair.

WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE CENT

Lack of Export Business Reduces Trading in Futures at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, May 4 (CP).—Trading listlessly and without feature for almost the entire session, wheat futures were given a boost in the final minutes of trading on the Winnipeg Grain Market, today. Earlier declines were recovered and values ended as much as 1 cent higher, May future at 63, July at 64 1-8, and October at 66 1-4 cents.

Substantial buying orders from New York and Chicago interests, near the close, gave the upswing its start and local traders, who previously had taken little interest in the market's operations, flocked into the pit to add their weight of support to the movement.

Failure of foreign importers to purchase Canada's wheat held speculators in check. Only small, scattered lots were sold for export today, evidence that buyers were reluctant to take wheat at its present price. It was believed if the inflation programme in the United States was pushed through, Liverpool prices would follow the upward trend here.

Cash and coarse grains were featureless.

Montreal Produce

MONTREAL, May 4 (CP).—As a result of continued light receipts, wholesale butter prices were slightly easier on the Montreal Dairy and Produce Market today. No. 1, regraded in car lots or less, became generally 22 1-2 cents a pound.

Heavy arrivals and light demand was experienced on the egg market. The egg season in Canada is now near the peak of the year and receipts all over the country are heavy. Quotations on graded shipments, in car lots or less, were 16 to 16 1-2 cents a dozen for extras, 14 to 14 1-2 for firsts, and 12 to 12 1-2 for seconds.

No change was recorded on the cheese market, the price for current Ontario colored remaining at 8 1-2 cents per pound.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

GOITRE IS DUE TO OVER-STIMULATION OF THYROID GLAND

It is the balance wheel which regulates the speed of your watch so that it will keep the correct time.

It is the thyroid gland in the neck which regulates the speed of your body processes so that they will do their work at the proper rate. If they were to work too rapidly your heart would beat too many times to the minute, and you would breathe more rapidly; in fact, you would do everything so fast that you would become very thin—"worn to a shadow." If the processes did not work rapidly enough you would become slow in body and mind, and increase in weight.

Nature always keeps ahead of our needs, so the thyroid gland always has a certain amount of what is called "colloid" material, resembling glue, stored within it. When a boy or girl is growing very rapidly, about the time of puberty, or when there is any extra demand on the system for increased work, less room is taken up by this colloid material, and the cells of the thyroid gland enlarge and are able to manufacture more juice—thyroxin. Thyroxin is the substance that drives or speeds up the body processes.

When there is no further need for an increased supply of this thyroid juice, then the cells become smaller, and an increased amount of this colloid material is again stored in the gland. Thus the gland may enlarge at times and yet be quite normal.

When the gland remains large or grows larger, it is called goitre, and there are many names for the various forms or changes that take place in the gland, according to whether the colloid or glue-like material increases, or the natural cells become thicker and more fibrous.

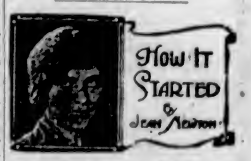
These changes are all believed to be due to something which keeps stimulating the thyroid gland into action—infection, shock, worry, or emotional disturbances of any kind.

Thus we find that an enlarged thyroid gland which has the heart beating as high as 120 times to the minute, instead of 72, may come down to normal with a few months of mental and physical rest.

At times, iodine is the usual treatment, and less rest is needed.

The use of the X-ray has lately come into more general use with excellent results.

In the very severe cases, your family doctor will recommend surgery—removing part of the gland—as the only means of saving life.



THE FUNNY BONE

"I bumped my funny bone!"

We have all heard it; we have all done it. And there is absolutely nothing funny about it.

The "funny bone" is the bone of the brachium, or upper part of the arm or fore limb. Its anatomical name is the "humerus." This is Latin, and better "umerus," though "humerus" it doubtless will more popularly remain. And it is the verbal play on this Latin "humerus" to which our term "funny bone" owes its origin!

RATES FOR CLASSIFIED OR WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

One and one-half cents a word each insertion; nine cents a word a week, with a minimum of ten words; cash with order. No advertisement accepted for less than twenty-five cents.

Death and Funeral Notices, $1.50 first insertion; $1.00 for each additional insertion. Marriages, Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam Notices, $1.50 per insertion.

Birth Notices, $1.00 per insertion.

Business or Professional Cards of two lines or under, $2.50 per month. Additional space at $1.25 per line per month.

Advertisers who desire may have replies addressed to a box at The Colonist and forwarded to their private address. A charge of ten cents is made for mailing replies. In this case add three words ("Box....Colonist") to the count for the number of words.

Out-of-town readers of our advertisements ask advertisers to give address as well as phone numbers, as it is not always possible to communicate through the phone.

Any claim for rebate on account of errors or omissions must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise the claim will not be allowed.

The Colonist will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one issue.

The Colonist service is available every day from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., excepting Sunday. Just call Empire 4114.

To insure insertion Classified Ads should reach The Colonist before 10 p.m. on the day previous to publication.

Classified Ads for The Sunday Colonist will be accepted up to 10 p.m. on Saturdays.

2 DEATHS

McDOWALL—On May 4, at the family residence, 1160 Chapman Street, there passed away Mrs. Millicent Louisa McDowall, wife of Mr. Ernest P. McDowall, age fifty-eight years, born in London, England, and a resident of this city for the past four years. There survive, besides her husband, one son, Bruce, and a daughter, Ellen, at home; her parents, two brothers and one sister, in England. The funeral will take place this afternoon, May 5, at 2 o'clock, from the Sands Mortuary, Ltd., Chapel. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick will officiate and the remains will be laid at rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

NOBBS—On May 3, 1933, at sixty-eight years of age, Mrs. Martha Nobbs, born in Bel-na-Garick, Ireland, resident for the past forty-two years in Canada, for the last three at 1341 North Dairy Road. She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Annie Rogers, Fanny Bay; Mrs. Dave Wast, Oakland, California; Mrs. Emma Johns, San Francisco; Mrs. Nellie Snyder, Seattle, and Mrs. Jeanette Walsh, Victoria.
The remains rest at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, where the funeral service will be held at 3.15 on Saturday, May 6, following which, interment will be made at Ross Bay Cemetery.

SHORT—On May 4, at the family residence, the death occurred of Mrs. Jane Short, aged seventy-six years, a native of London, Ontario, and a resident of Victoria for the last nine years, late residence, 3148 Somerset Street. She is survived by her husband, Charles Short, and four daughters, Mrs. J. Hay, Toronto; Mrs. J. M. Mc. Morris, Wabamun, Alberta; Mrs. L. R. Hass, and Mrs. P. Giles, of Calgary.
The remains are resting at the Thomson Funeral Home, from where the funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

FAULKNER—On Wednesday, May 3, at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Mary Jane Faulkner, aged seventy-eight years, wife of Richard Faulkner, of 1106 Finlayson Street. Mrs. Faulkner was born in Quebec and had resided here for forty years. She is survived by her husband and one son, George C., at home; two daughters, Mrs. R. Hodgkinson, of 3125 Blackwood Street, and Mrs. L. Kirk, of Cuba City, Wisconsin; also ten grandchildren.
The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from McCall Bros.' Funeral Home. Rev. E. P. Church will conduct the service, after which interment will be at Ross Bay Cemetery.

4 CARD OF THANKS

Mr. O. W. Dey and Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Dey wish to thank their many friends for their kind messages of sympathy and the many floral tributes, sent during their recent sad bereavement. To the members and staff of the E. & N. Railway, also the C.P. Express Company, do we especially wish to tender our thanks.

VANCOUVER ISLAND TRANSPORTATION COMPANY LIMITED

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a meeting of the holders of First Mortgage Seven Per Cent Debentures issued by the Vancouver Island Transportation Company Limited and secured by the terms of a Trust Deed dated the 1st day of November, 1923 and made between the said Company of the one part and The Royal Trust Company as Trustee of the other part, will be held at the Board Room, Bank of Montreal House, 605 Government Street, Victoria, B.C., on Wednesday the 31st day of May, 1933 at the hour of 11:00 o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of considering, and if thought fit, passing as an extraordinary resolution of the bondholders the following resolution:

RESOLVED that The Royal Trust Company as Trustee for and on behalf of the bondholders be and hereby is authorised, empowered and directed as follows:

1. To waive the provisions of Subsection 4 of Section 2 of the Trust Deed dated the 1st day of November, 1923 and made between the Vancouver Island Transportation Company Limited of the one part and The Royal Trust Company as Trustee of the other part insofar as the same relates to the default in payment by the Transportation Company in the payment to the Trustee of the sinking fund payments for the year 1932 and that the time for the payment of the same be extended as hereinafter provided;

2. To extend the time for the payments of interest on the said debentures, which fell due on the 1st day of May, 1932 and which fall due on the 1st day of November, 1933, for a period of one year on the terms that such interest, the payment of which is extended, shall carry interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum from the date on which such interest respectively fell due until the actual payment thereof, and on the further term that should the Transportation Company's earnings in the opinion of the Trustee justify the statements to be rendered by the Company on the 1st days of May and November in each year, which statements shall be open for inspection by the bondholders at the office of the Trustee) be such as to entitle the bondholders to payment of such interest that the same shall on the Trustee issuing its certificate to that effect forthwith become due and be payable;

3. To postpone and extend the time for the payments into the sinking fund required by Subsection 4 of Section 2 of the Trust Deed to be made on the 1st day of November, 1933 and the 1st day of November, 1933, in the following manner, that is to say, the Transportation Company shall in each year pay its net earnings in excess of its requirements for the payment of interest and the sinking fund in such year as required by the said Trust Deed into the sinking fund towards satisfaction of the said 1932 and 1933 sinking fund payments until the same shall be fully paid.

4. To enter into such agreements with the Transportation Company as it may deem necessary to carry into effect the provisions of paragraphs numbers 1, 2 and 3 of this resolution:

The holders of bearer bonds are required either to have with them at the meeting their bonds or in lieu thereof satisfactory evidence of ownership which may be given by certificate of a bank or other company or person approved by the Trustee as provided by Subsection 4 of Section 44 of the Trust Deed. A bondholder may be represented at the meeting by proxy.

Forms of certificate of deposit of bonds and forms of proxy may be obtained by calling at or writing to The Royal Trust Company, 1206 Government Street, Victoria, B.C.

All bondholders are especially requested to endeavor to be at the meeting or represented by proxy.

Dated at Victoria, B.C., this 3rd day of May, 1932.

THE ROYAL TRUST COMPANY
Trustee.

A farmer was delivering vegetables to an asylum, when a patient accosted him.

"You're a farmer, ain't you?" he asked.

The farmer allowed that he was.

"I used to be a farmer once," said the inmate.

"Yes?"

"Yes. Did you every try bein' crazy?"

The farmer never had, and started to move on.

"Well, you should try it," was the ex-farmer's parting shot. "It beats farmin' hollow."

Indicated by Courtenay School Board By-Election Won by by F. L. Anderton

COURTENAY, May 4.—Manual training and home economics are to be continued in the Courtenay schools. P. L. Anderton was elected here on Monday on this issue, defeating the present trustees' candidate, R. H. Harrison, by a vote of 190 to 158 in the School Board by-election.

The plebescite for the construction of an enlarged reservoir carried by 242 votes to twenty-six, to be paid for out of current revenue.

At a meeting of the City Council which immediately followed the counting of the poll, the fire department was given authority to expend its funds, but must keep within the estimated amount. Alderman Searle pointed out the necessity of all departments keeping within their estimated expenditures.

The Anglican Hall, which was said to be unfairly competing with properly licenced halls in town, came in for some criticism. The matter will be referred to City Solicitor J. M. Mitchell. Criticism was also voiced concerning the abuse of the sewage system by residents of Hungry Hollow, a district on the north side of town.

LEGION MEETING HELD AT SATURNA

MAYNE ISLAND, May 4.—The Gulf Islands Branch, Canadian Legion, held a well attended meeting recently at Saturna, and had the pleasure of availing themselves of the new hall for this meeting. Comrade President Paul Scoones, J.P., presided, and members from Galiano, Pender, Mayne and Saturna Islands were present. Assistance was voted for two members on Saturna, and arrangements are to be made by the Pender Island members to hold a fete during the Summer in aid of the branch's fund for distressed ex-service men and their dependents. The next meeting will be held at Port Washington on May 31. On March 31 this branch had forty-two members in good standing, and it is expected that the membership roll will be increased during the year.

VARSITY PLAYERS PLEASE QUALICUM

QUALICUM BEACH, May 4.—The Players' Club of the University of British Columbia, paid its yearly visit to Qualicum Beach on Wednesday evening and presented its eighteenth annual production, "Alibi," a mystery drama in three acts, and staged under the direction of Sydney Risk. There was a good attendance.

The players, evidently being word perfect, were able to give expression and action in their performance. There were fourteen in the cast, every one of whom gave a standard representation of the character taken. The audience showed its appreciation in a marked manner and went home more than satisfied.

POSTMISTRESS OF ALBERNI PASSES

PORT ALBERNI, May 4. — Mrs. Mildred Holt, popular postmistress of the city of Alberni, died in her sleep during the night. When her only child, Loreen, called her this morning, her mother failed to reply and investigation showed that she had passed away. She had been suffering from heart trouble for some time and, although under her physician's treatment, she attended to her duties, and her death has come as a great shock to the community.

Her husband, the former postmaster, died a little over a year ago

FARMERS MEET AT QUALICUM

Will Renew Government Grants—Free Seed and Gun Licences to Be Considered

QUALICUM BEACH, May 4.—The monthly meeting of the Qualicum District Farmers' Institute was held at the home of the president, G. Mant. In the absence of W. H. Pomroy, W. Hackworth acted as secretary. Those present were: F. Whitmee, G. H. Aldores, S. Cunningham, Austin McTaggart, Mr. and Mrs. C. Forster, Mr. and Mrs. W. McTaggart, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Thrall.

The Government grants, which had been stopped, will be renewed on June 30. Cases of destitution of bona fide settlers will be considered when funds are available. The distribution of free seed, and information concerning free gun licences for permanent farm employees, will be considered.

Special addresses will be broadcasted from station CFCT, Victoria, as follows: May 3, "The Fruit Trees"; May 10, "The Pollination of Fruit Trees"; May 17, "Some Forage Crops"; May 23, "The Small Fruits"; May 31, "Some Experimental Results."

EXHIBITION DATE SET

MAYNE ISLAND, May 4.—The ninth exhibition will be held here this year on August 9. The catalogue has been printed and will be posted up in order that the residents of the Gulf Islands may prepare in good time for their entries.

"LEAP YEAR" HAS DRAMATIC THEME

Tom Walls Has Leading Role in Current Empire Theatre Attraction

Tom Walls opens today at the Empire Theatre in "Leap Year." It is a British and Dominions' production from an original story by A. R. Rawlinson, and was directed by Tom Walls. Anne Grey plays opposite the star, and the others forming the strong cast are: Edmond Breon, Ellis Jeffreys, Jeanne Stuart, Charles Carson, Lawrence Hanray and Joan Brierley.

At a loose end after a period of Foreign Office duty on the Continent, Sir Peter Trallion induces a beautiful stranger to dine with him. They go away together and mutually confess when they part—the identities of both remaining secret—that they have fallen deeply in love. They do not meet again for four years, by which time Sir Peter has been beguiled into an engagement with another woman. The piquant situations resulting are cleverly handled.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Capitol — Lionel Atwell in "The Vampire Bat."

Columbia—"The Last Goal" starring Richard Arlen.

Dominion—Warner Baxter in "42nd Street."

Empire—"Leap Year," featuring Tom Walls.

Playhouse—Jack Hulbert in "Jack's the Boy."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE "Jack's the Boy," now at the Playhouse Theatre, contains all the essentials for popular success. The story is by Jack Hulbert and Douglas Furber. To play the character of Ivy, Winifred Shotter appeared by arrangement with British and Dominions. She appears with success, particularly in one scene in the wine cellar, where she and Jack Hulbert sing and dance to the strains of the band above.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Richard Arlen was a motorcycle messenger in Hollywood before he became a screen actor, and it was when he had his leg broken in a collision with a studio car that his thoughts turned to motion picture work. Arlen is now appearing on the screen of the Columbia Theatre in the leading role of the Universal football drama, "The Last Goal."

CAPITOL THEATRE At the Capitol Theatre is a thrilling mystery story, a harrowing version of the vampire legend, under the title of "The Vampire Bat." Lionel Atwill has the lead, supported by Fay Wray and an all-star cast. "County Fair," the second feature, is a fast action romantic drama of the turf and horses with a background of the glamorous "big top" and circus ring. Such well-known stars as Hobart Bosworth and William Collier, Jr., are shown.

DOMINION THEATRE "Forty-Second Street," a dramatic spectacle of the United States theatre, as wide as show business in scope, which Warner Bros. is showing at the Dominion Theatre today, carries a scintillating all-star cast of eleven stars, besides featured actors of note, a picked chorus of 150 beautiful girls and hundred of extras. The cast is headed by Warner Baxter, the star of "Six Hours to Live," "Cisco Kid," "Daddy Long Legs" and many other hits, and Bebe Daniels, of "Silver Dollar," "Rio Rita" and "Dixiana" fame.

MUCH INTEREST IS AROUSED BY REVUE

The revue to be staged at the Royal Victoria Theatre next Monday and Tuesday by the local Musicians' Association, is creating a great deal of interest. The object of the performance is a worthy one. It is an effort of the musicians themselves to insure plenty of park concerts during the Summer. They have the co-operation of the City Council in the undertaking.

The entertainment will be on a big scale and will afford patrons the opportunity of seeing vaudeville in "big time" style. Only one serious piece of music will be presented in the overture to "Oberon," by Von Weber, which opens the second part of the presentation.

CHARGES RELIEF DISCRIMINATION

Saanich Council Accused by Members of Ward Two Non-Political Association

Charges of discrimination in the relief department of Saanich Municipality were flung across the floor by members of Saanich Ward Two Non-Political Association at its meeting on Wednesday night in Cloverdale School. Assertions that two men on relief were able to drive cars and have members of their families drawing salaries, thus absolutely refuting the oath of destitution which has to be taken before relief is allowed, were made.

Councillor Dennis Hoare, representative of Ward Two, was charged with knowing of these discriminations by two members. However, these he emphatically denied.

Reeve William Crouch and Municipal Clerk R. F. F. Sewell, were also accused by irate members with knowledge of the alleged discrimination in the relief department.

The whole issue came about when W. Taylor asked exemption from turning in his licence plates on his car while drawing relief. The investigation committee was ordered to probe the case and find out what can be done for Mr. Taylor.

JAIL TERM AND FINE IMPOSED

Lun Duck Convicted in Police Court of Having Opium in His Possession

Lun Duck, charged before Magistrate Jay in the city police court with being in possession of opium, was yesterday sentenced to six months in jail and a fine of $200. In default of payment, an additional two months' imprisonment was ordered. The case was one that was handled by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. R. A. Wootton represented the department in the prosecution. The accused pleaded not guilty, stating that the opium found did not belong to him.

Detective-Constable Geoffrey J. Haywood, of the R.C.M.P. testified to finding the opium in a Chinese match box in a corner of the bed in the premises occupied by the accused on Theatre Avenue, in Chinatown. There were twelve decks of the drug. The certificate of the Dominion analyist was produced showing the character of the drug to be such as was commonly used.

Detective-Corporal M. T. Bergen and A. McD. Meiklejohn, also of the R.C.M.P., corroborated the evidence of Mr. Haywood, being present at the raid on the premises.

Mr. Wootton called attention to the large amount of the drug contained in the box found.

The Sunday school of St. Paul's Church (Anglican), Halifax, is stated to be the oldest Sunday school in Canada and one of the oldest on the continent. As it was organized in 1783, the Anglicans of Canada plan to make the celebration of Children's Day this year to centre around this event. It will be recalled that the 150th anniversary of the first Robert Raikes school in Gloucester, England, was celebrated three years ago in Toronto, when a statue of the great children's friend was unveiled.
